NEW TRADE AGREEMENT IS MOOTED

Premier King Believes Canada's Business With Uncle Sam May Expand

Deal May be Consummated Early in Year For Submission To Parliament Provided President Roosevelt Is Willing to Meet Dominion Half Way

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Premier William Lyon Mackenzie King, it is reported, is convinced that a comprehensive agreement that will double the Dominion of Canada's trade with the United States will be consummated early in the New Year for submission to Parliament at its next session provided President Franklin D. Roosevelt is prepared to meet Canada half way.

Premier King left today for Washington where he will be the guest on Friday of President Roosevelt in the course of a vacation trip to the southern states. The matter of the trade agreement is expected to be one of the important subjects of discussion between the heads of the two nations.

BRITISH CABINET IS IN SPECIAL SESSION; ISSUE IS "SETTLED"

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A special meeting of the British cabinet was held last night following another conference yesterday in Rome between Premier Benito Mussolini and Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Italy, at which matters of importance in connection with the Italo-Ethiopian war were reported to have been discussed. No statement was issued after the cabinet meeting with Premier Baldwin. The meeting was held at No. 10 Downing Street and the Mediterranean issue was discussed. The conversation between Mussolini and Drummond in Rome lasted one hour and was later said officially to have dealt with the question of British naval ships in the Mediterranean and Italy's military reinforcements in Libya. Today the Mediterranean problem was reported in diplomatic circles to have been "settled" whereby Italians would reduce troops in Libya and some British warships would be withdrawn.

United States Elections Indicate Republicans Are Coming Back

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Supporters of the Roosevelt administration and the New Deal derived little comfort out of the elections in various states yesterday, the trend of which was definitely in the direction of Republicanism. The Republicans gained control of the State Assembly of New York, early results showed. The Republicans had made an issue of the New Deal and now predict a Republican majority in the presidential contest next year but the Democrats insist that the contest had been fought entirely on state issues and could not be regarded as significant nationally. In New Jersey Governor Hoffman retained his Republican majority. The Republicans won the mayoralty fight in Philadelphia as well as capturing other offices. ROSSI RE-ELECTED SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Mayor Angelo Rossi was re-elected by a substantial majority in yesterday's municipal election here.

Arrival Over the Railway From Smithers Tells of Damage And Great Work of Repair Crews

H. Dickson, special representative of the Daily News, who was at Smithers at the time of the big storm, arrived this afternoon on a work train, being among the first over the road since the washout. He says that under the personal supervision of Superintendent Tobey and Divisional Engineer Burbank splendid work has been done, bridges being rebuilt in less than a day in some instances, long hours being worked and every man exerting himself to the utmost to get the work completed and the trains running again. There has been a shortage of food such as bacon and eggs at Terrace, Usk and waypoints but the residents accepted the situation cheerfully. The chief inquiry was for the news. Between Pacific and Prince Rupert 250 men in addition to the regular section hands have been working, some crews working from 18 to 20 hours a day. Two shifts of bridge men at Salvus under H. E. Alton and C. V. Hope have been engaged in renewing the bridges in that section. From the east a gang under Major Burbank and Mr. Walton have been putting in 20-hour shifts to connect with the west end and if everything continues as at present trains should be through to Prince Rupert by Saturday. From Salvus west to Kwititsa the water was from 18 inches to seven feet over the rails. The river took an old course north of the roadbed. The platform and depot at Salvus floated across the track and outbuildings floated 750 feet west of the depot. The section men used boats to escape when the water came up to the windows of their houses. Paul Starr, Port Essington native, fishing across the Skeena from Mile 56, says the water was six feet deep in his log house. He never saw it higher than one foot over the floor during his time. At Phillips Creek between Terrace and Vanarsdol part of the right-of-way was washed out but the bridge held. Nicholson Creek, three miles east (Continued on Page Four)

MARRIAGE OF PRINCE

Simplicity Marks Nuptial Rites Today Of Lady Alice Scott And Duke Of Gloucester, Son Of King

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The ceremonies being reduced to a quiet and simple basis with the elimination of more elaborate rites which had been planned, owing to the recent death of the bride's father, the Duke of Buccleugh, the marriage took place in Buckingham Palace today of Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas Scott to Prince Henry, Duke of Gloucester, third son of King George and Queen Mary. Only immediate family members were present at the rites although great crowds gathered in the streets to catch a glimpse of the royal couple and pay their tribute of loyalty. Lady Alice was dressed in pearl-shaded satin and the Duke was resplendent in a gold-faced tunic, scarlet breeches and black-topped boots of the Tenth Hussars. The couple were pronounced man and wife by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York supported the groom. The King wore a field marshal's uniform and Queen Mary a jewel-blue chiffon velvet gown. The bride had eight bridesmaids including Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose. Designer of Dress While London dressmakers were greatly excited over the news that Lady Alice Scott had chosen the young English designer, Norman Hartnell (who is a graduate of Cambridge, by the way) to dress her wedding, the rumor goes round that not until a bridesmaid arrived in his salon to be measured did Mr. Hartnell know of his distinction. London was delighted with the news. It is the first real acknowledgement of England's new place in the fashion world, a place that has lately so frightened Paris that several of the big French dressmakers (who until a year or two ago sat regally in their Paris stronghold and patronizingly sold their creations to English copyists) opened houses in London and are trying to disguise their foreign origin by covering their floors with Bradford woollens and Scottish tweeds.

NO TRACE OF PLANE

Search For Jack Herman And Five Passengers In Yukon Becomes More Widespread

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 6.—More planes joined yesterday in the search for Pilot Jack Herman and his plane with five passengers which has been missing since noon last Saturday on a flight from Dawson to Fairbanks. No trace had been reported of the missing machine up to last night although hope was expressed that it might have been forced down in some remote spot away from communication from the outside and that those on board might be safe. Extremely heavy rains of the last few days have melted snows in the rugged country and it is possible Herman may have had to come down in the snow and been unable to take off. Four skilled Arctic fliers were searching today for the missing plane, passengers aboard which were Peter Funk, Oscar Adany, O. Ogran, Walter James and George Townsend, all of Dawson.
