Rev. C. D. Clarke Makes Appeal For Salvation Army Fund—Discusses Current Affairs

In the course of his sermon at evening service in First United Church yesterday, Rev. C. D. Clarke made an appeal for generous support of the Salvation Army Christmas Fund. He described it as a "very, very worthy cause" and stressed the fact that the work the Army was carrying on in the way of making the lot of the needy a little easier was not confined to the Christmas season but continued on throughout the winter.

Mr. Clarke's Christmas subject was "Beautiful Ideals and Brutal Facts." He referred to the tendency, particularly at Christmas time, to stress the one and submerge the other. Brotherly love and goodwill were preached at this time but what was being done about the realistic facts? Discussing international affairs, Mr. Clarke declared that Herod was running loose in Ethiopia today. The young Canadian idealist who had brought up the matter of the oil embargo at Geneva was removed to South Africa at the instance of the realists. What were the lives of a few Ethiopians when the profits of the oil barons were threatened? There had been a Herod-like attempt to divide up Ethiopia but the authorities had had to reckon with the ever-increasing fact of Christ Herod had had to retract and Mr. Baldwin had had to apologise for the blunder of the Franco-British peace plan. The spirit of Jesus once an ideal, was becoming more and more a triumphant fact in the world today. Public opinion was coming to demand justice equality, peace and co-operation.

Coming down to local affairs Mr. Clarke declared that, by the standards of Herod, the city of Prince Rupert might be "getting out of the red, through the meeting of its bonded indebtedness but, by the standard of Jesus, it was still in the darkness as long as it failed to provide health and dental services for its children and reduced education costs to a minimum by eliminating such courses as manual training. Civic authorities, Mr. Clarke charged, had not given thought to the condition of the boys in the city until the cost of maintaining them in institutions had been felt. There were brutal facts right in the community but Prince Rupert was not alone in this regard. The whole system was based on brutal facts of money wealth, position, power and personal interests.

However, the ideals of today would become the facts of tomorrow. No ideal was ever born without Herod waiting sword in hand. But ideals could not be stopped any more than facts could be put away. The spirit of Christ had not been stopped even at the cross Jesus of Nazareth was today the world's supreme fact.

The evening service at First United Church included two anthems, "Behold a Virgin" and "Let Us Now Go Even Unto Bethlehem," and a solo by Dr. R. G. Large, "Star of Bethlehem."

The morning service was more especially for children with a special talk by the pastor and a number of carols.

Man in the Moon

Good afternoon folks! Christmas is coming and coming pretty quick.

It's just as true as true can be,
We see it every minute,
The stocking will not fill itself
But with what is put in it.

More and more every day we are reminded that without women the nation would stagnate.

Although there are only three horses in Prince Rupert we are not allowed to forget them. In life there are traces of care, lines of trouble, bits of good fortune and breaches of faith. Tongues must be bridled, passions curbed, and everybody has to tug to pull through.

Jake says politicians are all right in their place but the difficulty is they won't find it until they die.

He—Your husband looks like a brilliant man. I suppose he knows everything.

She—Don't fool yourself. He doesn't even suspect anything.
