Military Toys Missing From Santa's Bag

thers and mothers won't ha e to worry about Johnnie and Mary going to battle, in miniature, and after Christmas Day. F r Santa Claus says "nix" on the military note for his 1935 stock toys."The trend of toys this year is more to educational sets such as chemistry and microopes rather than to military toys as might be expected by the recent threats of war," says an fficial of a large Toronto department store. "Boys are more interested in building aeroplanes nd mechanical cars than they are in cannons," he says. Toys containing glass parts, such as eadlights, have gone into disfavor with parents, it was learned. Girls prefer cuddle dolls and complete wardrobes which they can wash to the old type of boudoir dolls in favor years ago.
