"We are dispatching men," an First Load Of Salvage Goods Is Brought In

Continuation of the westerly gales which have been blowing so consistently this spring made it north Monday all Union Steamship impossible until yesterday for the Armour Salvage Co. to go ahead with salvage work in connection with the wrecked American freighter Denali on Zayas Island in Chatham Sound but last night Capt. W. P. Armour brought the at the ocean dock. Two scows brought in had on board machin-

Included in the goods so far salvaged are three little damaged dump trucks, two large six-wheel the cannery freight aboard the Denali was consigned to the Nakat Trans-Pacific Packing Co. at Blue Fox Bay, Kodiak Island. Taking of the freight off is proving a ticklish job.

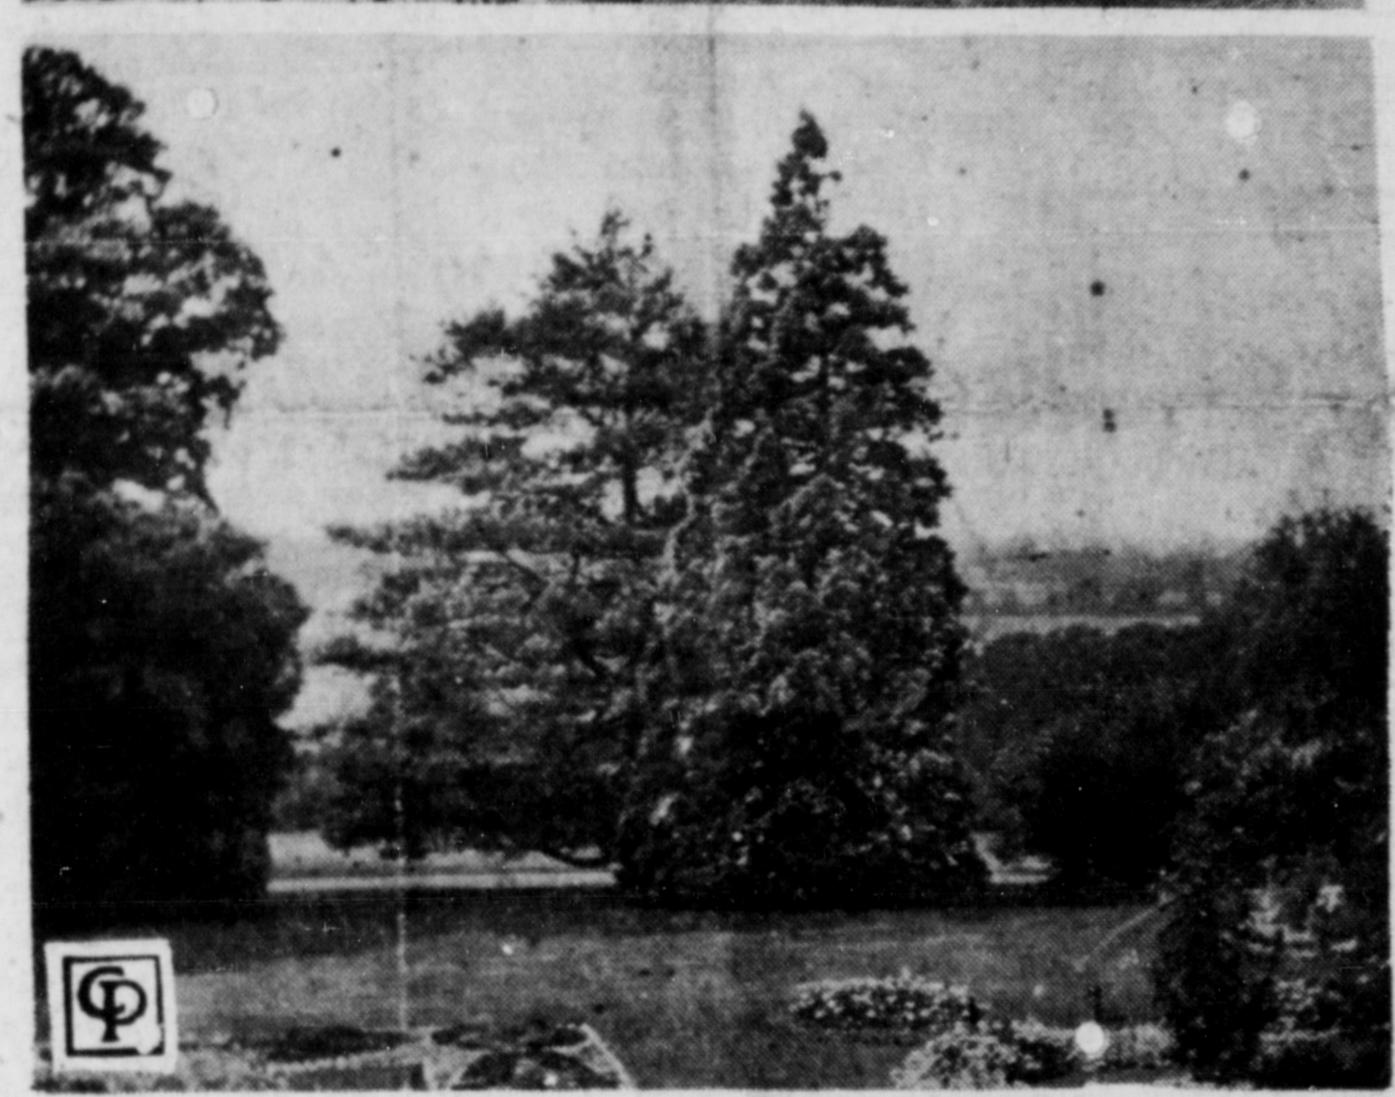

There is said to be imminent danger of what remains of the once large steamer being swept off the reef into deep water. Meantime, Capt. Armour and his crew are standing by awaiting a chance to • get at work whenever posible.
