Ahead of Japan

That, you may say, is merely the opinion of business men; it is a barometer of prosperity, rather than concrete evidence of it. For the latter we can have recourse to the statisticians. They have shown us recently that exports of United Kingdom products and manufactures for the first nine months of There are even more encouraging production has increased by five percent over 1928, while the United States was still 29 percent down on that year, France 22 percent and Germany 19 percent down. The latest available figures for this country show even further progress. For the first half of last year the index of industrial production reached a figure of 10 percent above that attained in 1928. Taking industries separately, we find that, in engineering, the average monthly production in Britain during the first half of 1935 was Third Avenue 10 percent ahead of 1928, while Phone 281

Houses, Cars and Shares

We have not yet solved the tragic problem of how to find work for all those of our countrymen! who are capable of earning their iving. Until we can do this we, cannot claim real prosperity as a nation, but we can at least take credit for the fact that we have done more than has any other people for our brothers who have fallen victims to the mal-adjustment between the demand for and the offer of individual service. If we have not yet been able to give all of them a job, we have at least given them more than twice excursion party this week, are hopas much, on the average, in unemployment relief, than the world's unemployed have received.
