Half of District Salmon Canneries Now Closed—Revival of Halibut Landings Noted Here During Past Week—Trolling Falls Off

Half of the twenty-two salmon canneries which operated in Prince Rupert fisheries district during the 1936 season are now closed down or are closing. The remainder are keeping open to pack cohoes and chums and it is expected some of these will soon close down. One of the most successful seasons the salmon industry has had in many years is rapidly fading out. The canneries still open are Namu, Klemtu, Butedale, Claxton, Carlisle, Inverness, Wales Island, Old Massett, New Massett, Shannon Bay and Lagoon Bay.

Seining for pink salmon in Massett Inlet was closed last evening. The run there has been disappointing but the escapement of fish to the spawning grounds is reported satisfactory. Heavy westerly winds during the height of the seining season made fishing difficult and may have been held partly responsible for the light fishing. Chum salmon are still available for Queen Charlotte Island canneries desiring to put them up.

The week ending yesterday was marked by a revival of halibut landings, particularly American, at the port of Prince Rupert, a total of 411,400 pounds being landed of which 377,800 pounds was from American vessels and but 33,600 pounds from Canadian. High price of the week for American fish was 11.9c and 7.5c paid the Majestic. Zarembo and Thelma II for catches of 20,000, 10,500 and 13,000 pounds respectively and the low 8.3c and 7c received by the Addington for 24,000 pounds. For Canadian fish the high price of the week was 10.1c and 6.5c received by the Margalice for 7,100 pounds and the low 7.4c and 6c which the Nornen was paid for 5,000 pounds. For the season up to yesterday the grand total of landings was 8,656,600 pounds as compared with 8,818,850 pounds at a corresponding date last year, the Canadian total for this season to date being 4,690,100 pounds as against 4,278,550 pounds a year ago while the American total was 3,966,500 pounds in comparison with last year's 4,540,300 pounds.

The run of coho salmon on the various trolling grounds contiguous to Prince Rupert is now definitely falling off after one of the best seasons in years as far as quantity of fish and consistency of run has been concerned. However, the fishermen are still remaining on the job with few if any boats coming in and the packers continuing at work.

Loaded Much Salmon

Having been delayed loading heavy offerings of canned salmon at various cannery points along the coast, Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, arrived in port at 8:30 this morning from the south and sailed at 10:30 a.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints. The vessel had a total of

"Strike Me Pink" Starring Saucer-Eyed Comedian, Coming At First of Week

An outstanding musical comedy hit, "Strike Me Pink," Eddie Cantor's sixth annual screen production, comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here as the Labor Day first of the week feature presentation. Magnificently mounted, the fast moving fun festival presents the saucer-eyed comedian in a funny role as the alternately mouselike and aggressive Eddie Pink, graduate of a correspondence school course in personality development.

Eddie tries to do a favor for his pal and suddenly finds himself managing an amusement park which is menaced by a gang of ruthless slot machine racketeers. Inspired by a newspaper picture, Eddie worships a glamorous night club singer. He learns, however, that she is the wife of one of the gangsters and has been using his affections to get the crooked slot machines installed. Eddie secures evidence to put the gang on the spot but becomes involved in a wild roller coaster chase which brings a funny and thrilling climax.

The picture contains some popular song hits, eye-filling costumes and spectacular dance ensembles. The supporting cast includes Sally Eilers, Ethel Merman, Parkyakarkus, Greek dialectician of radio fame, and William Frawley.

12,900 cases of salmon on board. There were fifteen round tripper on board.

A small portion of the B. A. cannery wharf at Port Essington caved in yesterday and a small amount of canned salmon dropped into the mud below. It being low tide it was recovered without difficulty. The damage to the wharf was not very extensive.

With fine weather in prospect, quite a number of anglers are expected to visit Khtada Lake this week-end. At least two parties are going in by gasboat while Pilot Charlie Elliott may be back from Stewart to take a party in aboard his Junkers seaplane.

The recent rains have taken some of the color from the local gardens but it has prolonged the blooming season. Many places were beginning to show signs of drying out. The difficulty now is to cut away broken or useless portions of plants, to pull the weeds that seem to be growing faster than ever and thus prevent that appearance of neglect which is apt to increase as the fall advances. It is easy to keep the gardens cultivated and neat while they are improving but one is apt to lose interest when the winds and rains damage the plants.

This is a good time to consider what we are going to do for next fall. One suggestion I have to make is that we all plant more perennial phlox for August and September blooming. I have nothing but pink but some of my neighbors have several colors and it is a simple matter to acquire plants of at least a dozen shades. These would prove a great acquisition during the early fall.

Chysanthemums should be kept carefully tied up until you are ready to lift them and give them the shelter of the porch. The late varieties may not bloom unless given shelter. I have had one plant making a good showing for the past month but a number of them are not yet showing signs of bloom. When ordering new plants always stipulate that they must be early flowering varieties.

This is the season to place orders for spring bulbs. The sooner they are planted the better as they should make root before the cold weather comes. A half hundred bulbs planted now mean a lot of enjoyment in the spring.

Dahlias and sweet peas have been making a good showing this year. Many people also seem to have fine glads but mine are late. On the whole it has been an excellent season for almost everything.

They say that if you cast your bread upon the waters it will return to you buttered on both sides. I found that true this year. On the day of the flower show I met a visitor from the Okanagan who showed considerable interest in the exhibits. I took him out to see a few of the gardens in Westview and when he had looked them over he thanked me for my courtesy and suggested that he would like to return it by sending me a few rock plants. A week later I was rather surprised to receive through the mail a parcel of rock plants, over twenty in number, and mostly of the kinds I needed to round out my collection. I planted them that evening and all are doing well. In the fall they will go into their proper places in the rockery, enabling me to revise the whole layout.

My final word to local gardeners is to plan now what to discard as useless and also to secure new perennials and bulbs at once. Leave the purchase of biennials such as canterbury bells or wall flowers until spring to avoid winter losses. Roses should also be purchased in the spring and not the fall—H. F. P.
