FINE GYMNASIUM DISPLAY BRINGS SEASON TO CLOSE FOR RECREATION CENTRE

Crowd of 1500 Persons Witnesses Notable Demonstration In Exhibition Hall—Value of Physical Training In Community Ample Demonstrated

A crowd of possibly 1500 spectators which taxed the capacity of the big Exhibition Hall Saturday night witnessed a striking display of what can be accomplished in the way of physical development and discipline under capable direction in a brief period of ten short weeks. It was the first mass display of the local provincial recreational and physical education centre.

which has been conducted here during that length of time under the direction of Paul Kozoolin as chief instructor. The repertoire of exercises, including folk dancing, drills and gymnastics of wide variety, with over one hundred participants—girls and ladies and boys and men—was an impressive revelation and a novel entertainment for the big crowd. The demonstrations were staged with an agility and ease which it seemed difficult to realize could be achieved in such a short space of time. The boon which the activities of this centre has been to the five hundred or so persons who have been attending it was amply demonstrated in public.

The display marked the closing of the season for the local centre which, it was announced by Ian Eisenhardt, provincial director of recreational and physical education, would be re-opened next fall and continued for five or six months. The enthusiasm which was displayed both by participants and spectators Saturday night should ensure that the second season will be an even greater success than has been the first.

The large program was completed in a little over two hours. Highlights of the evening which were replete with feature events were the mat tumbling and vaulting box exercises by girls, boys and men, parallel bar demonstrations by men, group games including comic boxing by boys and gymnastic pyramid building with and without apparatus by a chosen group. Special illumination further lent to the effectiveness of some of the events all of which were accorded enthusiastic applause by the big audience.

Following the grand procession of all athletes, Mr. Eisenhardt spoke briefly and, in the course of his remarks, paid tribute to the work here of Paul Kozoolin. At the close of the program, many present offered personal congratulations to the instructor.

Gratified at Popularity

Mr. Eisenhardt stated that it had been largely due to the efforts of School Inspector T. W. Hall that the local centre had been established during the past winter. The response had been astonishing in Prince Rupert. The value of the work of these centres was briefly alluded to by Mr. Eisenhardt. They afforded the opportunity of using time in a constructive and useful way. Physical development was reflected in personal appearance. Mr. Eisenhardt gave full credit to Mr. Kozoolin for the creating of the local centre and for the interest which had been displayed in it. Much credit was also due Lachlan Gillies, the assistant instructor, for his work in making the classes so successful. No where else in the province had there been a greater measure of interest or such a large attendance in proportion to the population.

The proceedings opened with the grand procession and the singing of "O Canada." Co-ordination exercises by the girls and ladies comprised the first item followed by passive exercises by the men and boys. These were smartly executed. Bench exercises by ladies and men called for considerable suppleness. The Scandinavian folk dance by girls was carried out with pleasing precision. An illuminated Indian club drill which was carried out in complete darkness by boys and men with the use of bottles filled with a phosphorescent fluid was novel. Tumbling, always popular, went over in a large way, there being separate demonstrations of somersaulting, hand-spring etc. by girls and by boys and men. The introduction of clowns injected good humor into the comic vaulting box exercises, first by girls and then by boys and men, were carried out with ease and skill. The rope skipping drill by girls was pleasing as was also the English folk dancing number. Parallel bar exercises by the men, under special colored illumination, were carried out smoothly. Danish primary gymnastics by girls and ladies evoked loud applause. The pyramids, also specially illuminated, were a spectacular feature, these being carried out by a chosen group of girls, boys and men. The walking pyramids were thrilling. Final item was a gymnastic salute in the course of which letters were formed with human characters to deliver the message to the audience

OUTLOOK FOR WAR

Use of Poison Gas Complicates Situation—Italians Near Addis Ababa

GENEVA, April 20: (CP)—Capt. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, bluntly attacked Italy's alleged use of poison gas today after Premier Mussolini had informed the League of Nations council that the Fascist nation demanded virtually all of Ethiopia as a price for peace.

Eden declared the question of use of gas "cannot be passed over in silence."

Baron Pompeo Aloisi for Italy, declared the anti-gas treaty of 1925 "does not abolish the right of reprisal against atrocities such as our troops suffered."

NATIONAL MOBILIZATION ROME, April 20: (CP)—Orders went out today to all Fascist organizations to hold themselves in readiness for what was believed to be national mobilization.

NEARING ADDIS ABABA

ADDIS ABABA, April 20—While trainloads are leaving for Djibouti in French Somaliland as the able-bodied populace prepares to resist the invasion "to the last man" with women remaining to fight shoulder to shoulder with their men for freedom, motorized Italian troops are advancing close to Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, today. The East African war between Italy and Ethiopia appears to be rapidly approaching the culminating crisis.

Despite the apparent certainty of ultimate and probably early victory, Italians are said to have suffered heavy losses during the last few days. Two Italian airplanes are reported to have been brought down.

Frantic Efforts Being Made to Take Party From Behind Cave-in in New Brunswick—Toronto Barrister Succumbs to Exposure

MOOSE RIVER, N.B., April 20:—Herman Magill, barrister; Dr. E. D. Robertson, surgeon, and Alfred Scadding, all of Toronto, trapped a week ago Sunday night by a cave-in of rock in the Moose River gold mine and since practically given up for dead, were yesterday established to be still alive but Magill died before daybreak today. They communicated early yesterday morning by means of a tube with rescue workers who were able to send in food and flashlights to them.

Frantic efforts are being made to reach the two remaining men and take them out before they are drowned by rising water in the mine. Blasting is to be resorted to.

Magill, Robertson and Scadding were caught behind the cave-in while engaged in making an inspection of the mine. Conversation was established again this afternoon between surface workers and the two men imprisoned in the mine after it had been cut off for some time through apparent inability of the men to get to the tube put down through a diamond drill hole. The rescue workers continue desperately to drive through the dangerous Reynolds shaft in the hope of getting to Dr. Robertson and Scadding. The miners are not sure how much further they have to go before reaching the Meagher shaft leading to the 141-foot level where the men are caged.

Reports from below through the diamond drill hole stated that the mine was flooding and that Magill had died from exposure in the pit. This aroused rescuers to even harder efforts and they literally tore into the shaft before dawn. Twenty men are working in a three by three passage under superhuman difficulties. They form a human chain passing out debris as it is scooped by four trained leaders.

On the surface doctors were worried because the entombed men had not been able to get food from the diamond drill hole today. They had not eaten since last night and before yesterday they had gone without food six days.

Mrs. Woodyard and son were passengers aboard the Catala last evening going through from Vancouver to Alice Arm to join Mr. Woodyard who is in the employ of the Esperanza mine there.

Mounted Police Officer And His Wife Shot in Vancouver; Believed Murder and Suicide

VANCOUVER, April 20: (CP)—Acting Lance Corporal George H. Whiteman, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and his wife, Lillian Whiteman, were found Sunday shot to death in the wife's room in a West End rooming house. Police express the belief that the officer shot his wife and then killed himself as a result of jealousy.

The couple were married two months ago without knowledge of Whiteman's superior officers after a friendship which started before the wife was divorced from her former husband.

Whiteman's head lay in the curve of his wife's neck, he apparently, having kissed her after putting the bullet through her head. Then he shot himself in the head.

The tragedy is believed to have occurred Saturday night.

There was no sign of a struggle. Mrs. Whiteman is survived by a mother and brother in Victoria.
