DEFENCE MINISTER IAN MACKENZIE SAYS JUNIORS CANADA BECOMING DEFENCE CONSCIOUS JUNIORS HER PLEDGE IS TO DEFEND HER OWN COAST IN TIME OF WAR.

VICTORIA, Oct. 7: (CP)—In a statement declaring that Canada has become "defence conscious" in recent months, Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie said today that primary considerations are a development program for Mr. Smith gave the story of his + lutionary plot against the So- + Canadian defence and the extent to which the taxpayers are able to meet the new burdens and new taxes.

Reviewing the principles laid down at the Imperial he Junior Chamber of Commerce Conference in 1923, Mr. Mackenzie said that Canada's held in the Knox Hotel large dining responsibilities were the maintenance of internal security, the preservation of strict neutrality, law and order ing year after the gathering had within our territorial waters in time of peace and the protection of our coasts and sea borne trade in time of Coming down to concrete proposals the defence minister forecast "substantial developments of an important nature in the navy, army and air force." While many of the details had to be worked out he visualized as a tentative scheme a series of air bases along the British Columbia coast. One would be at the south end of Vancouver Island, probably Esquimalt, another at the north end of Vancouver Island, either on the west coast or at P. Lyons and C. G. Ham. Alert Bay, and possibly one at Prince Rupert and an advance post in the Queen Charlotte Islands.
