Logging Camps Running Again In Full Blast

The J. R. Morgan Logging Co.'s camp at Sedgewick Bay, the T. A. Kelley Logging Co.'s camp at Atli Inlet and the A. P. Allison Co.'s camp at Cumshewa Inlet are now all running again full blast, according to word brought to the city from the Islands on the Prince John yesterday afternoon.

The Prince John brought north from Vancouver J. R. Morgan, who has been in Vancouver since last fall, and his daughter, Mrs. E. J. Palmer, and A. P. Allison.

It is still reported that Mr. Ailison is going ahead with a logging railroad project which will make his operation one of the largest in the north. On Sunday a large log carrying barge called at the Allison camp to take out a load of logs. It brought in a large steam shovel. Mr. Allison has made several log shipmens on barges from the Islands during the winter.
