PEANUT FARM FOR PROFITS

Plant Peanuts Instead of Potatoes and Put Pence in Your Pockets.

A farmer named Cleveland Roberts of Feeding Hill, U. S. A., has raised a remarkable crop of peanuts during the past season that proved profitable as well as an interesting experiment. Early last spring he invested in a pint of unroasted peanuts-60 peanuts in all, count 'em-at one of the local stores, and planted them on his farm, with such success that he sold his crop of four bushels to Henry J. Perkins at a price that shows that native-grown peanuts are as profitable as potatoes.

> The pint of peanuts was planted in a light soil in the same manner that one plants potatoes. one peanut being placed in each hill. The crop was cultivated in the same way as potatoes, several hoeings being given to keep down the weeds. When harvest time came Mr. Roberts was surprised ! not only by the size of the crop, but also by the size of the peacuts. Many of the shells contained six large, perfectly-formed peanuts and there were large quantities of the humped-back, double-jointed va-

Mr. Roberts kept the largest peanuts and will exhibit them at the Suffield fair. He is convinced that profitable crops of peanuts can be raised in Feeding Hills as well as in Virginia, and will plant larger amount next season.

BIG MOTOR SHIPS TO CROSS OCEAN

Big New Vessels Building to Have Oil Engines Installed in Them-To Supersede Steam Vessels.

Predictions are now being made by the heads of many of the great shipbuilding firms throughout the world that this year will show a very great advance in the use of oil engines as the motive power for ocean-going vessels. So rapidly has been the progress made that many believe that within two or three years ships without funnels or boilers will be making the trans-Pacific and trans-Atlantic pas sages. With this method of propulsion the speed of the vessel can be increased and a far smaller Rupert, B. C., occupation civil engineer, intends to apply for permission to purchase the following amount of room taken up by the machinery than with the boilers and engines of the ships of today.
