WANTED—A NIGHT SCHOOL FOR ADULTS

Now that the days are growing shorter and the evenings longer, a good opportunity presents itself for the School Board to arrange to open a night school for adults. There are scores of young and middle aged men in Prince Rupert who would be glad to take advantage of this means of helping themselves, to whom evening school would be a source of delight and profit.

In England, as well as in the large cities of Canada and the United States, the night schools have been well attended. They are not necessarily attended by the duffers and the illiterate. In England, some of the brightest young men of the working classes have found in the Extension Schools the link to a university training. One man well remembers how so busy a man as Sir Oliver Lodge—he was plain Professor Lodge in those days—used to find time to look in at an extension class of young workmen in England some fifteen or eighteen years ago. True educationalist that he is, he could not conceal the evident pleasure it gave him to meet with students so earnest, that they would spend their evenings at the university in pursuit of knowledge that was else denied them.

Our changed educational ideals make it difficult today for anyone to think of an education as something that can be obtained by attending a three or four years course of lectures. All life is education. The real student never ceases work. His education ends only with the grave—possibly not then.

The schooling of adults, through free evening lectures in school-houses, is based on the modern assumption that education is never finished, and that large numbers of people who had to leave school early, owing to the stress of making a living, are eager to get whatever knowledge they can.

The need for the evening school is readily seen from the facts that only about 3 per cent of the school population attend high schools, and 1.5 per cent the colleges, universities and professional schools, and that most of our cities have large numbers of foreign-born people who need instruction in English and other subjects.

Dr. Henry H. Leipzig, the Supervisor of Lectures in New York City, sums up the results of free lectures in that city as follows: (1) Adult Education is established as a permanent feature of our educational system. (2) Reading and study have been encouraged, a deeper interest in school life developed, and a refining influence spread. (3) The best teachers in our universities have come into contact with the people. (4) Co-operation has been brought about between the lecture, the library and the museum. (5) The school is becoming the social centre of the community. (6) The schoolhouse must be constructed with a view to its use for various educative influences, so as not to become merely a nursery for children, but a place of intelligent resort for adults.

Prince Rupert simply cannot afford to do without an evening school for adults this winter.

PASSING COMMENT

The newspaper files of two or three years ago are interesting reading. Yesterday in hunting through some old newspapers we came across the following:

"PRINCE RUPERT TOWNSITE SOLD"

"Vancouver, April 18.—The entire Prince Rupert townsite has been sold outright. The sum involved is $100,000 and a substantial sum has been paid down to bind the bargain. The purchasers are Captain Matthew Machatter and several of his associates," etc.

Even the Mad Hatter would have shrunk from announcing that Prince Rupert townsite was purchasable for $100,000—part cash.

The news that the Grand Trunk Pacific will not agree to sign the petition to abolish the ward system "on the ground that it would enable the centre to outvote the outlying parts of the city," did not come as a surprise to the News. The News was informed some time ago that the Grand Trunk Pacific had agreed as part of the price for the assessment settlement to uphold the ward system.

It is very clear why certain members of the council had taken the matter up with the company secretly.

Here is another anomaly of the assessment agreement. The railway company is only to pay $15,000 in taxes—about one per cent of the total taxes. But on questions like the ward question which is to be decided by a majority-petition of the ratepayers, it is to have a 35 per cent representation.
