Sarah Chruchill Sees Night Life

Sailing without warning, Sarah Churchill, daughter of Britain's former chancellor of the exchequer landed in New York. Reports that she was flying to the arms of Vic Oliver, stage comedian, to marry him, were denied; and although her visit was described as a simple quest for a stage job, her brother Randolph followed her overseas, presumably to scotch the romantic rumors, and perhaps to look after her interests. This picture of Vic and Sarah at the theatre was the first that was made of the pair, since the girl's arrival. They would not talk of romance or jobs.

DRAMA OF NURSING

"The White Sister is Outstanding Attraction at Capitol Theatre This Week-End

"The White Angel," dramatization of the life of Florence Nightingale, comes to the Capitol Theatre here as the strong feature offering this week-end with Kay Francis in the stellar role.

The story of this wealthy English girl who renounced a life of social frivolities to become a war nurse and laid the groundwork for what subsequently became the Red Cross and incidentally became the inspiration for the nursing profession's ideals is filled with absorbing drama, tragedy and romance.

The picture is set in the period of the Crimean War. It begins in London, Florence Nightingale's home, where she fought to clean up the disreputable hospitals of the time and ends in the same metropolis when the famous nurse was decorated by Queen Victoria. The most dramatic scenes take place in the British military headquarters at Scutari on the Bosphorus, on the quay at Boulogne, the port of Marseilles and the field hospital and battle lines at Balaclava where the famous Light Brigade rode to its death.

The strong supporting cast includes Ian Keith, Donald Woods, Henry O'Neill.
