New International Monetary Stabilization Agreement Is In Effect For Three Nations

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 13:-A new international monetary agreement between United States, Great Britain and France designed to stabilize the currency of the three countries and provide for the orderly exchange of gold between the three nations in order to support paper currency without fluctuation goes into effect today. It is operative on a day to day basis subject to cancellation on twentyfour hours' notice by any of the parties concerned. So far, it is confined to the three nations but others

One of the features of the agreement is that gold will be transferred between the governments and not by banks or private interests. Thus foreign exchange speculation is completely removed.

The agreement is described by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau as a "new kind of gold standard."

Providing for free exchange of gold between the stabilization funds of the three nations, more normal trade relations is one of the important aims of the agreement by curbing currency speculation and putting a check rein on exchange fluctuations.
