Alberta Situation

Member of Audit Bureau of Circulations

William Irvine of Alberta, writing in "The Canadian morning Commissioner and Mrs. McMillan will embark aboard the Unionist," organ of the All Canadian Congress of Labor, steamer Princess Norah for Ketpublished in Toronto, is very critical of the Social Credit experiment in Alberta as being carried out by Premier Aberhart. He says in part:

"Political patronage has been rampant since Mr. Aberhart came to office. Able and trusted civil servants have been discharged wholesale without rhyme or reason except for the sake of finding positions for friends. The effect of this has been to demoralize the civil service. Moreover the scrip scheme which was to have acted on purchasing power like the infusion of new blood into the blood stream and keep on flowing endlessly, came to abrupt stop in a stagnant pool at the door of the provincial treasury.

"To make matters worse, there is a serious schism within the ranks of government supporters. The insurgent elements boiled over at the recent special sessions of the Legislature, and were seen to be directing the actions of the government from the back benches. The debt-reduction lgislation which they forced the government to pass. while meeting general approval, is not without its drawbacks. It created a furore among retired farmers and small investors, who, while losing their means of livelihood, have not been otherwise provided for.

"And on the top of all this comes the Premier's decision to muzzle the press. While some of his most ardent followers will welcome this action, it will not be a popular move. There is an innate love of freedom in the people of Alberta. Although the press may oppose the popular view and eve nthough it may be true that things are at times misrepresented, the people will resent any fascistic encroachments on civil liberties."

Mr. Irvine charges that Aberhart is trying to aggravate the Dominion government by encroaching on federal jurisdiction so far as to compel disallowance of some of his legislation.

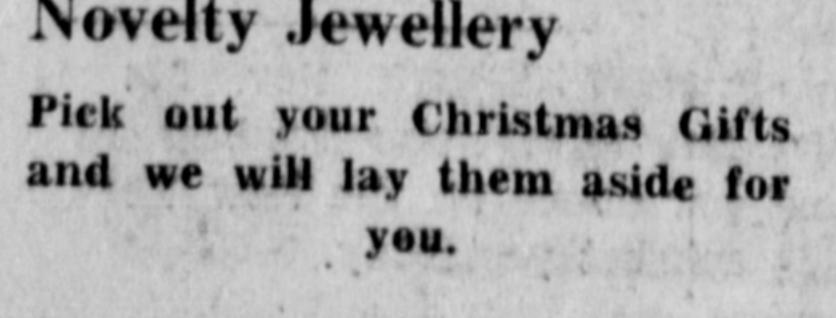

"The reason of this obvious tactic is clear. Having at last become convinced of the absurdities which he undertook to perform, the Premier marches forth with 'God' on his lips and a chip on each shoulder. If the Dominion government would disallow an Act which could be claimed to be essential to the fulfilment of his promises, he would hail it with joy and put the onus of his failure on Dominion authority. Indeed, he has tried to force the press into that role and to attribute blame for his failure up to date. to federal opposition. If the Dominion government or the Northern British Columbia will be banks or the courts take any action, no matter how sound seld. On Thursday afternoon of the reason for it may be, Mr. Aberhart will stage a war lext week Commissioner and Mrs. to the death against the 'Big Shots,' and his following will McMillan will be in Prince Rupert be consolidated."

"The writer goes on to show that the weakness of the cess Norah. Accompanying the opposition which is being consolidated is that it is only commissioner from Prince Rupert an oppostion and makes no proposals as to what is to take on the Ketchikan trip will be Brithe place of the Aberhart policy in case of the defeat of gadier Walter J. Carruthers, comthe present government. If the new alignment is to have numbia and the Yukon, who is here a chance of success, it must have specific and concrete from Wrangell to meet them, and proposals which will at least appear to be more adequate Adjutant Eva Laycock and Captain to the economic situation than those of the present Pre- E.
