CHANGES IN SCHOOLS

There is to be a change in the outlook of the public schools, if the efforts of Dr. Weir and his associates at Victoria are successful. A new curriculum is being worked out, designed to "orient the child in life rather than cram him full of facts." According to a despatch from Victoria the second bulletin of a series is being sent out which makes provision for social studies in the lower grades and geography, general character education and elementary science in the middle classes. Other changes are to be made, according to the despatch.

While there does not seem to be anything very new in the suggested changes, it is probably a good thing to emphasize the higher things of life and it is to be expected that along similar lines particular stress will be laid in future bulletins on the value in education of music, literature and art. There was a time when a big fight was made for the right of every child to an education in reading, writing and arithmetic. The next big fight will be to secure to every child at least preliminary training in music and the other arts with a view to developing a fuller life and better appreciation of the things that have in the past been the privileges of the wealthy. There would be no extra cost in this. Already in some of the provinces of Canada every teacher is equipped for the teaching of elementary music including the theory of sound and harmony. The total cost is the acquiring of a pitch pipe or tuning fork. The day has evidently arrived when the time of the school should be devoted to something other than learning how to acquire an education through reading, writing and arithmetic, important as these preliminaries are. Actual education should commence in the schools instead of being relegated to the haphazard post-school period.

SPORT CHAT

Contrary to general expectations the man behind the gun on the prairies will not enjoy the banner season predicted in 1936 when the ducks started their annual flight from the northward. Lowering of water levels in the nurseries across the three prairie provinces and the drying up of pot holes, sloughs and lakes has resulted in a shortage of waterfowl according to early reports. Thousands of duck were reported to have perished.

Largest nesting area for game birds on the American continent, south and southwestern Saskatchewan and Alberta have suffered most from lack of rainfall. The situation is not serious in Manitoba where concentration is reported at wider intervals than in former years. The far north remained a question mark on the duck crop chart. Conditions bordering on the critical were reported from extensive sections of southern Saskatchewan. Some species of duck were met with only at rare intervals while others were so reduced in numbers they were said to be in need of more protection.

Breeding conditions for canvasbacks and redheads were at a dangerously low level in the wheat province, a government survey stated. The supply of green-winged teal and ruddy duck was near depletion, officials of the Saskatchewan game branch said. Similar conditions prevailed in southern Alberta. Northern areas, with more water than in previous years, have benefitted from the drought conditions to the south. To what extent breeding grounds in the far north will contribute to the hunter's restricted bag this year was not known. Biological survey parties are engaged in a widespread survey in the Yukon and other districts.

A survey conducted by land and air last year showed more than 40,000,000 ducks nesting in regions adjacent to the Great Lakes, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba with large increases in border states to the south. Largest migration in six years was reported in prospect.

GIANTS WIN STREAK OFF

Suffered Defeat at Hands of Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday—Cards In Second Place

PITTSBURG, Aug. 31: (OP)—The fifteen game winning streak of the New York Giants came to an end on Saturday when they were defeated 7 to 4 by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Four pitchers were unable to stay the batting attack of the Pirates who made 14 hits. The Giants, however, maintained a three-game lead in the standing over the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals who went into a temporary tie for second place as a result of the former losing to Boston Bees after having won six straight while the Cards ended their losing streak by blanking the Phillies. Yesterday the Giants—Carl Hubbel pitching the first and Mel Ott hitting a homer in the second—won two games of a double-header from the Cubs who were driven back into third place below the Cards who split with Brooklyn Dodgers, the second game going 13 innings before Dodgers won. Dizzy Dean pitched St. Louis to victory in the opener.

In the American League New York Yankees again vanquished the Detroit Tigers and "School Boy" Rowe.

The St. Louis Browns are now in the cellar below Philadelphia Athletics.
