SAVING ON GOVERNORS

The government of Ontario decided to save money by refusing to allow lavish expenditures on its lieutenant clare. governor. The official residence was abolished and the representative of the federal government had to live like other people with a nominal allowance.

There are some people who would like to see Britishi Columbia follow in the footsteps of Ontario. It would be son, Oona River; F. T Patterson economy to do so but there is sentiment on the other side. and A. Johnston, Surf Point; Miss In the first place Government House is one of the sights Bertha B. Fawcett, Port Essington; Mrs. Wilfred G. Booth and of Victoria and is useful for entertaining outstanding Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Long, Metlaguests such as King Edward at the time he was Prince katla. Alaska; Mr. a of Wales.

Another argument against closing it is that, as it son, Hazelton, city; W. W. Anderstands, the upkeep employs a great many people both indoors and out. The gardens alone keep a number of city; R. J. It is also argued that usually J. Nielson, Vancouver; B. Ball. the lieutenant governors spend a great deal more than Prince George; G. H. the salary and living allowance.

The chief argument against Government House as an R. March, Grand Forks; J. Bush-institution is that it encourages snobbishness. Its exis-man, Grand Prairie. tence breeds class consciousness just as much as does Laura M. Hudson, Metlakatla: communism. Also money is paid to a rich governor which L. E. Moody, Usk; H. P. Cahill and should be used in keeping people who need the money.

We hate to see all the old landmarks abolished. While there will be snobbishness any way and suggest that, if the position is to be filled by rich people who presumably have paid considerable sums into the coffers of the political party, the people of the province should be excused from making any payment on upkeep but that it should! be required that the appointee who enjoys the honors should be required to foot all bills and to keep the grounds in proper condition, entertain the cabinet annually, make provision for a certain number of I. O. D. E. teas and other social events and allow the public free access to the grounds at all reasonable hours.

If appointments are to be made by merit and not by wealth, the institution should remain as it is today. The small amount of money required in its upkeep hurts no-
