Cattle Browsing on Prairies in Mid-
Winter—Attended Important
Fishery Meetings

In Montreal business circles there is a good deal of optimism these days. It is stated by John Dybhavn who returned home Friday after a trip east. This is, apparently, due in large measure to the new American-Canadian treaty which is expected to cause revived activity both in exporting and importing businesses.

During his trip Mr. Dybhavn encountered exceptional weather conditions for this time of year. The unusual lack of snow on the prairies was most noticeable. It was a common sight to see cattle browsing in the fields of both Canadian and American prairies. Mr. Dybhavn returned west by the Milwaukee Railway through Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana. About the only place where snow was to be seen was on the eastern slopes of the higher mountains in Montana and there the depth was no more than a couple of feet.

In Vancouver Mr. Dybhavn found they had been having constant rain. The people of that metropolis appeared to be forgetting what it was like to have a dry day.

Attended Meetings

Mr. Dybhavn went east primarily to attend the annual meeting of the Biological Board of Canada in Ottawa. Business at this meeting was largely of a routine nature. Nothing of consequence in regard to policy of the board transpired. Regarding the pithard and herring investigation on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, which was originally undertaken under joint auspices of the provincial and Dominion governments, Mr. Dybhavn said that the province had intimated its intention of assuming its share again this year after a lapse of a few years owing to financial stress. This would result in the investigation being more actively pursued.

Another important gathering which Mr. Dybhavn attended in Ottawa was the fresh water fish conference called by the National Research Council and the Biological Board of Canada at which all the provinces were represented. Discussion centred on the advisability of a general policy for all of Canada in regard to fresh water fisheries and a national committee, consisting of representatives from each province and of directly interested bodies, was appointed to follow up the matter.

Speaking of canned salmon, Mr. Dybhavn stated that market conditions and prices did not look any too encouraging at the present time.

Official Bulletin Today is Most Serious Since Friday—
Disquieting Reports Followed Rather Hopeful
Outlook Sunday and Early Today

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 20: (CP)—The three physicians of King George, in an official bulletin tonight, said: "The King's life is moving peacefully toward its close."

LONDON, Jan. 20: (CP)—An official bulletin issued at 5:30 this evening from Sandringham Palace stated that the strength of King George, who is seriously ill with bronchial catarrh and cardiac weakness, was "diminishing." The bulletin, signed by three physicians, said: "The condition of the King shows diminishing strength." The statement, revealing the King was in a critical condition, is considered the most serious to be issued since Friday.

Oxygen was administered to the sinking monarch tonight. It was at least the second time oxygen has been administered since Friday. Persons in close touch with court circles described the King's slow weakening as a "general slowing up of the bodily machine." Every effort is being made to conserve the King's strength. Even visits of the Queen and other members of the Royal Family to his bedside have been kept as short as possible.

The disquieting bulletin followed a more hopeful outlook which had been held throughout the day, indications from previous reports being that his condition was unchanged and he was, apparently, maintaining strength. A morning bulletin had said: "The King has had a more restful night. There is no substantial change to record in His Majesty's condition."

Affairs of the monarchy have already been taken over by counselors of state appointed with the full knowledge of the King. They include the Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Kent, the Duke of York and the Duke of Gloucester.

Week-end Reports
LONDON, Jan. 20: (CP)—"In spite of restlessness during the night His Majesty continues to maintain strength," stated a more reassuring bulletin issued yesterday from Sandringham Palace where King George lies ill with bronchial catarrh accompanied by a cardiac condition which is causing considerable anxiety. The King had a quiet day yesterday and his condition last night was officially announced to be unchanged.

A further hopeful sign was that Sir John Simon, Home Secretary, had not been summoned to Sandringham. Custom calls for the Home Secretary, if possible, to be in attendance when a King dies. Little Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, granddaughters of the King, who have been at Sandringham, were sent home to London Saturday night, this being taken as an indication that the condition of the King was admittedly serious.

Churches throughout the Empire yesterday offered special prayers in view of the serious illness of the King. Prince Rupert churches joined in offering such prayers.

Paul Kozoolin Coming From Vancouver This Week To Assume Post of Chief Instructor—Will Have Comprehensive Curricula

A provincial recreation centre is to be established in Prince Rupert immediately, it is announced, and Paul Kozoolin B.A., a graduate of the University of British Columbia, will arrive here on Wednesday morning aboard the steamer Prince George from Vancouver to take charge of the local scheme in the capacity of chief instructor. The classes, organized by the Department of Education, Recreation and Physical Education Branch, are for men and women and will be free to the public. Service clubs and other local organizations have already pledged their support to the movement in which T. W. Hall, inspector of schools, has been taking a keen interest, having worked energetically towards having a centre established in Prince Rupert. The organization of the local classes at this time is the direct result of a visit here a few months ago of Ian Eisenhardt, provincial director of recreational and physical education.

Recreation centres, of which there are twenty now established in nine cities and districts of British Columbia, have met with great response by young and old alike. The present enrolment for the province in 1935, which is far ahead already of last year's final enrolment. Activities in the centres consist of physical education, gymnastic exercises, apparatus work, mat, springboard, box, games such as volleyball, table tennis, basketball, gym hockey, handball, badminton, etc., boxing and wrestling and dancing for ladies.

Mr. Kozoolin is well fitted for this position and has a good knowledge of all phases of sports, athletics and physical education. He is a former junior champion in badminton and is well known in soccer circles as he has been playing centre half for the North Shore Uniteds. He has an academic teaching certificate.

SINCERITY IS QUESTIONED

Senator Nye Says Commercial Interest Was Uppermost In Wilson's Mind In Entering Great War

WASHINGTON D. C., Jan. 20:—Commercial interests and not the much-vaunted love of freedom and democracy caused the United States to enter the World War, declared Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the special Senate committee investigating the causes of United States entry into the war, at a session of the committee. He asserted flatly that the commercial interest was uppermost in the mind of President Woodrow Wilson in deciding to enter the war.

Senator Nye's charge against President Wilson was an "infamous" allegation, asserted Senator Carter Glass, who was a personal friend of the late president. Glass is chairman of the Senate appropriations committee.

Aroused by Nye's outspoken opinions, the committee spent the rest of the day in wrangling.
