RAILWAY BUILDING AGAIN

Evidently there is to be a new start on major railway building. A branch 100 miles in length is planned by the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway also is taking steps to try to serve the same part of Quebec province. It is a sign of the times that railway extension is being seriously considered and it will be interesting to watch the moves made and see which railway wins out in the effort to serve the country. Possibly one or both of the railways may soon decide that a western outlet to the Peace country would be a profitable venture.

COMPLETE NATIONALIZATION

Complete nationalization of radio is set forth as the ultimate objective of the government in reorganizing the radio service of Canada. While that is set as the ultimate, the present plans are to improve the radio services. That is what may be gathered from the despatch telling about the report of the committee which has been dealing with the matter.

We are strongly in favor of the ultimate objective but do not like the suggestion that private stations will continue for the present, evidently much as before. However, the legislation is not yet before Parliament and we are quite ready to await developments.

What we would like to see is a system similar to that of Great Britain where all the radio is owned by a national broadcasting company owned by the state, and where the stations are kept up from the proceeds of the radio licences. We do not think the radio licences should go into the general funds of the government but should be applied direct to defraying the expense of providing good programs and broadcasting them to the people of Canada.

Protect Your Home!

Good paint is the only insurance that you can put on your home that will protect it from the weather elements. If your home is not protected against dampness and heat, dry rot is the result, which takes a heavy toll in property each year.

Drop in and let us tell you about B-H "English Paint." It carries the manufacturer's written guarantee. For those who wish to mix their own paint and still have the high quality of B-H "English" you cannot buy anything finer or longer-lasting than 70-30 Paste White. Let us help you with your painting problems.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

The bad weather of last week delayed work in the garden so there is now a good deal to do. Following a series of rains the surface soil of the whole garden should be broken up by hoeing or raking in order to prevent capillary evaporation. Those who have not yet planted out their seedlings would do well to consider doing so very soon. A number of people make it a rule not to do this until after June 1 when the Darwins are in bloom we get heavy rains and many of them are broken down. The long stems make staking desirable but most people consider it too much work to stake tulips.

A good many gardens have had nothing to show yet. People who miss the early gardens lose a good deal of the year. And yet there is something to be said for making

What I mean by swapping is not necessarily giving plants or seeds in return for other plants or seeds. If someone gives me a bunch of seedlings that I need, or a clump of perennials, I do not have to hand that person back something out of my garden. It rather spoils the effect of the gift to give something back. Often the best plan is to pass something on to some other person who needs it. In that way the garden idea is gradually extended.

Medals Given Free

We are authorized by the National Garden Bureau of America to offer to any garden club or any other organization holding an annual flower show a bronze medal, both sides of which are pictured above, for the best collection of vegetables grown in a home garden. The object of this is to encourage competition among vegetable growers. Applications sent to the editor of this column will be forwarded to the bureau.

but most people like to have them in the ground on or about the Victoria Day holiday.

Very soon it will be time to sow perennials or biennials for next year. Among those that do well in Prince Rupert are Siberian Wallflower, pinks, delphiniums, pyrethrum, foxgloves and columbines. Some people will want to grow hollyhocks. If they are given a good start with strong plants in the early spring, they may bloom here but many have failed to grow these flowers successfully. Doubtless many other perennials will do well here but they are not generally known. We should like to know of any that are worth growing so that we may pass the information on.

The early tulips are about over but the Darwins are now at their best or very nearly so. Every year just one garden a year. Forget the early bulbs, the arabis, the Alysium Saxatile, the Siberian Wallflowers, the doricum, the primroses and polyanthus and aricula and bend all the energies on raising annuals and late perennials. Then when the climax comes in July and August, there should be something worth looking at. For the "small formal garden" that may be the best plan but for me, I like the continuous garden from March to October, even if it is not quite as spectacular in July and August as others. But everyone to his taste, as the girl said when she kissed the cow. That is one of the enjoyable things about gardening. We can please ourselves and get a lot of fun out of it whether we succeed or fail.

I like the lofty way in which some of my semi-professional friends look down at my humble gardening efforts. I enjoy having them criticize or damn with faint praise. It does not worry me, what they think I carry on but at the same time I am quite willing to learn, if suggestions suit me. It is only by getting information from friends that I have been able to do anything. Also I get help by swapping plants.

It is rather difficult for some people to keep up their enthusiasm in gardening. I find it advantageous to make more or less frequent changes in the layout of beds and in the flowers grown. One season I feature one flower, another, quite a different flower, but the perennials cannot be quickly changed and such plants as begonias are always correct, no matter what the season or the conditions.

I forgot to mention peonies and iris among the plants to grow here. I like the English or Spanish Iris or any of the bulb iris in preference to the other kinds. They occupy less space, make less mess after blooming and can be transplanted to new locations more easily. Peonies often take some time to get down to blooming. I am told they do better on the prairies than here. But I have seen some excellent blooms in Prince Rupert. Jack Fuller has had a fine showing of them for several years in succession.—H. F. P.

Sow Pinks Now

Pinks come in many varieties and colors except blue. The seeds are quick to germinate and the annual varieties will bloom this season. Perennials may also be sown now for next year's blooming.

IT'S EASIER TO TAKE KLIM

Take your COW along to camp—but take it in a tin! KLIM will give you plenty of rich, creamy milk . . . without the usual weight, waste and worry!

KLIM is real milk—cream and all—in powder form. Only the water is removed, and nothing is added. It is light, compact and keeps without ice. Add KLIM to water and it will make over eight times its weight in liquid whole milk, as natural tasting and nourishing as the best bottled milk. Buy it at grocers and supply houses.
