Little was done all summer but recenty there has been much greater activity with the result that the garden now looks as if it would really be a thing of beauty pretty soon. New walks have been made and earth has been hauled for the lawn! at the bottom of the dip.

It is hoped that the work will continue so that people may be able to see exactly what it means. Should the city become busy industrially, beautification may be forgotten! but if the authorities are once brought to a realization of what this particular work means they will be reluctant to let it go back to its former wild condition.

Those who drive around the circle at the back to see what is going on there should hesitate before doing so at present as the road is very rough, much rougher than it has been for the past two years.
