Big Scrimmage

Evidently Prince Rupert is saving up for the big scrimmage during the week preceding Christmas when high and low, rich and poor make a big final effort to secure from the storekeepers the articles they need as Christmas presents for the members of the family and friends. It becomes a big game and resembles to a considerable extent the scrimmage in a game of rugby football. It is easy to avoid this scene by shopping now instead of during the last week.

Menace of Communism

While we do not agree with some authorities in their statements that communism is an immediate menace to Canada, we do think it may become a growing menace unless steps are taken to check it. In many of the cities of Canada and also in some country districts there are communist schools attended by children, mostly of southern and western European extraction who are being taught that it is right to take and seize the good things of the world because all these things really belong to the proletariat and that today the good things are held by force by people who have no right to them.

These same children are being taught to ridicule all forms of government, all higher education, all religion. They are taught that there is no such thing as honor in this world and that spiritual development is a figment of the imagination. They are taught to prepare to take part in a great struggle in which all the wealth of the nation will be taken by force from its present owners for the use of communists and that it may be necessary to exterminate the capitalists in this country as they did in Russia.

If the teaching is anything like that outlined here it is easy to see that it does not make for good fellowship. In Russia no person is allowed to teach a child religion until he or she reaches the age of eighteen. That eliminates the Sunday School entirely. In place of it the children are taught communism. We feel that it would not be encroaching too much on the liberty of the subject to have a law forbidding the teaching of communism to the young in schools or study groups. When the children reach a less impressionistic age it does less harm.

INTERIOR VISITORS ARE HERE

Special Excursion of Canadian National Railways Brings About Seventy-Five Persons To Town

Approximately seventy-five visitors are in the city from interior points on the Canadian National Railways annual pre-Christmas excursion to Prince Rupert. They arrived on last night's train from points as far up the line as Prince George. Some will return to the interior this evening while the balance will leave on Friday evening's train. Most of the visitors were busy shopping today. A number are visiting with friends while here.

Terrace sent in the largest party, estimated to number about forty. From Smithers and Burns Lake came groups of about a dozen each. Francois Lake has sent in quite a delegation. Other points have contributed smaller parties.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

Ratepayers, at a meeting last night, expressed opposition to a proposal of Mayor William Manson to divide the city into three wards. This, it was pointed out would give Sections One and Five a total of six aldermen with only three between Sections Six, Seven and Eight. The Hays Creek sewer question was again discussed.

FAMOUS IN MANY WAYS

Dr. John Leo Chabot of Ottawa Known as Soldier, Politician, Surgeon and Sportsman

OTTAWA, Dec. 9: (CP)—Surgeon, politician, soldier and sportsman, Dr. John Leo Chabot, who died yesterday, was one of Ottawa's best known citizens. He was a onted advocate of imperialism and protection and strong supporter of unity between the English and French-Canadians.

D. Chabot was a Conservative member of the House of Commons for Ottawa from 1911 to 1921, when he was defeated, and sat again in the house from 1925 to 1926.

A pleasing and effective speaker in both English and French, with a peculiar charm of manner, Dr. Chabot's voice was heard often on the hustings and in Parliament in support of a policy of protection and Imperial preference. His support of the Conservative party was unwavering. One of his outstanding public services was his work for complete amity between French and English. For any cleavage between the two races he had no sympathy.

Dr. Chabot's great medical skill was placed at the disposal of the government at the outbreak of the war. As major and surgeon of the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards he was loaned to the Canadian Army Medical Corps, promoted to rank of lieutenant-colonel and placed in command of the Ottawa General Base Hospital throughout the war. He received the long service decoration.

Born in Ottawa

John Lee Chabot was born in Ottawa February 23, 1869, of French Canadian origin, son of P. H. and Marguerite (Ethier) Chabot. His great grandfather served in the French fleet under Napoleon I. His maternal grandfather fought under Papinau-Nelson in the rebellion of 1837.

Known in the political arena and on the athletic field as "Jerry," he made his first bid to enter Parliament as a Conservative candidate for Ottawa in 1908 and again at a by-election two years later. On both occasions he was unsuccessful. In the Reciprocity election of September 1911, Dr. Chabot was elected for an Ottawa seat in a hotly contested campaign with a majority of 353 votes.

After sitting in the House of Commons for six years, the wartime election of 1917 saw him opposed in Ottawa by the old Liberal chief, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was contesting two ridings. Dr. Chabot was again elected, this time with a majority of 5,023. He was defeated in 1921 but elected in 1925 with his majority cut to 2,116. When Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen took office for a brief period in 1926 following the customs scandal, Dr. Chabot was made a member of His Majesty's Privy Council. In the general election that year, he met defeat.

But it was as a surgeon and lover of athletics that Dr. Chabot first came into the public eye in Ottawa. Not only did he achieve a distinguished academic and professional career, but he identified himself with various athletic associations in the capital. Early in his practice, he became one of the best known and successful surgeons culminating with his election in June 1932 as president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

Outstanding Surgeon

His outstanding work as chief surgeon of the Ottawa General Hospital brought him fame. In his wide medical activities, he has been a member of the Ottawa Hospital Association, physician to the University of Ottawa, surgeon to the Ottawa Police Force, President of the Ottawa Medico-Chirurgical Society and director of the Ottawa Medical Society. For a number of years Dr. Chabot was a frequent contributor to medical and surgical journals.

A lacrosse player himself in his earlier days, he was president of the famous Capital Lacrosse Club in 1908 when lacrosse was flourishing as the national game. Prior to this, in 1904, he was president of the Capital Athletic Association. Of late years, Dr. Chabot took an active interest in lawn tennis and bowling. When the Intermediate Capital Lacrosse team were intermediate champions of Canada in the early '90's, "Jerry" Chabot was player and captain of the champions.

His athletic interest extended to football. In 1906 he was president of the Ottawa University Football team, then champions of Canada.

Educated first at a private school, he attended the University of Ottawa where he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1889. After attending McGill University, he was awarded his medical diploma in 1892 and shortly afterwards returned to Ottawa to open a practice.

He married Miss Mary Devlin, daughter of the late E. B. Devlin, of Ottawa, in 1894 and after her death married Miss Hope Brunel, of Ottawa, who also predeceased him. Dr. Chabot had no children. He was a Roman Catholic.
