

FREE TRIP ROUND THE WORLD

We have just arranged with one of our clients to place forty-two lots on the market under exceptional advantages to the purchasers. The lots are some of the best in Sections 7 and 8. The prices are as low as any on the market, and the terms so easy—monthly—that anyone can buy. Along with this exceptional offer, each lot admits the purchaser to a drawing for a FREE TRIP ROUND THE WORLD. If you hold the lucky ticket the trip is yours; or you can surrender it for a cash consideration. The chances are good—one in forty-two. Come in and investigate.

OVER THE CRADLE

A little lad is sleeping
In a little trundle bed,
While fairies troop about him
With dreams for his curly head;
The little face is tear-stained,
But under his glad eyes
Are visions of a pathway
That wanders up the skies.

His feet among the roses
Go dancing in wild glee,
He runs among the clover
All bright and glad and free;
The stars are for his pillow
In golden glory spread—
The winds are singing for him—
The little curly head.

A woman bends above him
And breathes a fragrant prayer
That leaves a holy beauty
Spread like a halo there.
"Oh, little lad, sweet pathways
Are lurking where thou art;
But never such a haven
As in my mother-heart."

"Oh, little lad from dreaming
Run home again to me,
Here is the love that needs you,
And here your rest shall be;
My arms grow lonely empty
Creep back into your nest,
And let my soul grow peaceful
With your fingers at my breast."

Mark Twain once said, "In the first place God made idiots. That was for practice. Then he made school boards." That is one case where second place wins first prize. If he had lived in Prince Rupert he'd have said city councils.

It is just as worthless to die on third base as on first. The boy who reaches the plate counts.

THE GIRL WHO SMILES WINS HEARTS

She Makes the Best Comrade, Sweetheart, Wife or Mother.

The girl who has a sweet disposition, or, rather, the one who can hide her ill nature behind a smile, is the one who comes out best in this world. It is she who has lovers and friends, and whom every one is pleased to do for. Her path has few rocks for her to stumble over.

The girl with a frown on her face may be the best hearted girl in the world, but she handicaps herself at every turn. Mothers teach their daughters no end of useless things with the best intentions in the world, losing sight of the most important study—gentleness of manner and the worth of a smile.

If they would teach their daughters the value of curbing a bad temper and wearing a smile it would help the girl, to her advantage in after life. A cross nature is all a matter of habit; it can be checked in early girlhood.

The pleasant girl is always sought after in company, and by men. Not one man in a thousand but who would rather laugh with a girl than sigh with her. The girl who does not possess a sunny nature causes those with whom she comes in contact to feel unpleasant and discontented. It would take a brave man indeed to have the temerity to speak of love or propose marriage to the girl with a frown on her face.

The husband who knows from cruel experience that an angry woman is waiting for him to make war on him for the veriest trifle, with a face distorted by frowns, naturally turns his steps in any direction save that of home. I do not say that many of these wives have not grave causes for complaint. No doubt they have; but even in the face of every grievance or anger they should smile through it all as long as they can.

If coaxing and tenderness fail to accomplish what they wish they should reason it out that frowns and bitterness will not win it for them.

The first lesson in the art of attracting is that of learning to smile. The smiling girl is not to be confounded with the one who arouses antagonism by her simper or giggle. There is a time to smile, a time when seriousness is called for, as the cloud momentarily drawn over the face of the bright sun.

The woman with the warm, sunny disposition responds naturally to these emotions; therefore, there never is a meaningless smile on her face when there should be a tender expression on her countenance and sympathy in her eyes.

The girl not given to smiling should begin at once to correct that defect in her training. Last, but by no means least, it will be found to be the magnet which wins love and holds it after it is won.

Players can risk as much money as they like on horse races, but we bet the professional who wages so much as a sixpence on the match in which he is engaged. If he allows himself to be approached by the agent of another club who desires his services, he is simply asking for suspension, which means a stoppage of his wages.

Because potatoes are bad for the wind, he must not eat them before a big match—unless he cares to run the risk of being fined. For the sins of others he may also suffer. If a ground was suspended owing to a riot caused by the decisions of the referee, the player, although he might have been quite blameless, is suspended too, for during the period of suspension he must not kick a ball in public within six miles of the suspended ground.
