

FREE TRIP ROUND THE WORLD

We have just arranged with one of our clients to place forty-two lots on the market under exceptional advantages to the purchasers. The lots are some of the best in Sections 7 and 8. The prices are as low as any on the market, and the terms so easy—monthly—that anyone can buy. Along with this exceptional offer, each lot admits the purchaser to a drawing for a FREE TRIP ROUND THE WORLD. If you hold the lucky ticket the trip is yours; or you can surrender it for a cash consideration. The chances are good—one in forty-two. Come in and investigate.

SECOND AVENUE SIDEWALK

Obstruction Near New Theatre
Complained of by M. K. Rogers.

M. K. Rogers made application to the council last night for some arrangement by which a sidewalk should be made available along Second Avenue on the city side between Fifth and Sixth streets. He had made efforts to get some sort of convenience laid there by the Westholme Lumber Company whose work on the new theatre is the cause of the sidewalks being torn up. This sidewalk was laid at the expense of Mr. Rogers and other property owners there.

"This Westholme Company seems to think it owns the town," said City Solicitor Peters. "They must be brought to time. Refer the matter to me and I'll see to it." This was done on the motion of Alderman Douglas, seconded by Alderman Newton.

SMALL HALIBUT CATCHES

Seattle Fishers are Explaining That Their Grounds are Fished Out

Seattle, Nov. 6.—The fishing vessel Commonwealth with only a fair catch of fish from the Alaska banks reports the failing of the fishing banks about Hecate Straits. Up to last year in spite of frequent spells of rough weather which kept the fishing vessels from the Sound and B. C. ports, out many days over their usual time, good catches of halibut and cod were common.

This year, however, the fish seem to be scarce, or else they have deserted the old banks and as a result both the American vessels and the New England Fishing Company's fleet of Vancouver, are practically depending on the banks off Southeastern Alaska for their fish supply.

REPORTER RUNS RECKLESS RISK

Was Challenged to Personal Combat by an Alderman at the City Hall Last Night. He Had Suggested the Alderman Should Boil His Head.

Reckless risks are often taken by reporters in the pursuit of their arduous calling, but the happy-go-lucky fraternity of the fourth estate seem ever ready to beard the lion in his den or the alderman in his hall, regardless of personal peril. Last night, however, a reporter at the City Hall took quite a desperate chance, and took it with a smile.

He was challenged by a fierce untamed alderman, challenged to come right out of the warm City Hall to do battle with fists to a finish on the cold snow outside. To his credit be it said that only the demands of duty prevented his instant acceptance of the aldermanic challenge.

It all sprang from a jocular suggestion that the said alderman, who figured prominently in the coal dispute, should go and boil his head. The suggestion scribbled on a scrap of paper was chucked across the table to another reporter who most wickedly addressed it to the alderman in question, and handed it to the City Clerk. Then the fat was in the fire.

No sooner had the coal dispute come to an end than the alderman left the board, came round to the press table, and with the dire threat that he would smash the reporter into small pieces demanded if he had written that "letter" to him. The reporter replied that the note was a personal matter between himself and his colleague who had so culpably mishandled it.

But the bellicose alderman, taking off his glasses, and clenching his little fists, would not be balked of his prey by such a diversion of the casus belli. "Come outside right now, and be pulverised," he remarked, or words to that effect. The council was discussing another matter, the reporter was faithfully noting proceedings. "After adjournment," he hissed eyeing the alderman defiantly. For a moment the two glared at each other with real wrath in their eyes. Then the aldermanic fists unclenched, and he returned to his place at the board. The combat is still to come. Marquis of Queensberry rules, date and place to be arranged.
