SEINEBOAT BLOWS UP

Nomas Total Loss as Result of Explosion on Sunday at Klemtu Cannery

The seineboat Nomas, belonging to Charlie Collinson, a native, exploded and sank a total loss alongside the cannery wharf at Klemtu, down the coast from here, according to word received in the city yesterday. The explosion occurred at 9:30 Sunday morning. A man who was working on the boat at the time was thrown into the water but was not injured. Cause of the explosion has not been ascertained. The Nomas was a 45-foot vessel and was equipped with a 30 h.p. Frisco-Standard gas engine.

Man in the Moon

A burglar entered a local bank with a revolver on his hip intent on getting some easy money. He took one look at the staff and then abandoned his purpose. The question is, why did he do it? Jake says he thinks the staff must have expected him to apply for a home improvement loan.

Little sparks make big fires. And Rangers have to fight 'em. The more sparks, the more fires. And so ad infinitum.

The sweet young thing was proudly driving her new sports model through a big town.

Arriving at a busy crossing, she found the red light against her. When the amber and then the green lights appeared she found that her engine had stalled. Drivers behind began to get impatient.

The traffic policeman walked across to her and mildly inquired: "Haven't we any colors you like, miss?"

Father (sternly) — Another bite like that, and you'll leave the table. Son—Another bite like that and I'll be through.

Prince Rupert people should be sun worshippers. The reason is obvious.

Some people imagine we shall all be happy if we get the post office and the pulp mill but we shall not be. Happiness is not brought about in that way.

Happiness is something that is born in the individual and which communicates itself to the rest of the community. A few really happy people is the greatest asset any community can have.

People who have most wealth are usually least happy.

When the suffragettes obtained the right to vote they were less happy than when they were militantly championing a cause. And what they won is something that they do not value since they have it.

This year we did not have much summer but we'd have been very little happier if the sun had shone every day. And think of the fire hazard we missed!

The Japanese are having a wonderful time trying to blow the heads off the Chinese and the Chinese are having a great time trying to repel the invaders.

Canadians are having a good time patting themselves on the back because of their luck in not being attacked by anybody.

MASARYK IS DEAD

tion for which he had fought. Coachman's Son

Masaryk was born in the Moravian border town of Hodonin, March 7, 1850. His father was a coachman on one of the Austrian Imperial estates. The son, during his childhood was taught Czech and a smattering of German. After attending a Czech school he was sent to a German institution to prepare for his career as a teacher, but left after two years and went to Vienna. In the Austrian capital he became apprenticed to a locksmith and later to a blacksmith.

He was persuaded to resume his studies in 1865, was graduated from high school in Vienna and then from the university. He spent a year in Leipzig and finally returned to the university as a lecturer in philosophy. In 1882, Dr. Masaryk was appointed to one of the Czech professorship at Prague University, when that institution was separated into two distinct parts—one German, the other Czech.

Although Dr. Masaryk began his political career in the early eighties, it was not until 1891 that he was elected to the Austrian parliament, being sent there as a candidate of the Young Czech, or Liberal party. He soon incurred the intense displeasure of the official and court circles in Vienna, but made a reputation abroad that proved useful to him in his later efforts to free Czecho-Slovakia from Hapsburg rule.

During World War

During the World War he developed his case in detail against Austria-Hungary and carried on his campaign of propaganda from Switzerland, France, England, Russia and the United States. During his visit to the United States it was said that he, more than any one else, won President Wilson over to the cause of the small nations.

During his year at Leipzig, Masaryk met Miss Charlotte Garrigue of Brooklyn, whose father was head of an insurance company. Miss Garrigue was studying music in a conservatory and upon completing her course returned home. They were married in 1878, when Dr. Masaryk came to the United States to press his suit for her hand. Mrs. Masaryk died at Prague May 12, 1923.

Will Do Everything to Keep U.S. Out of War—Hull Opposed to Invasion of China

NEY YORK, Sept. 14.—"The government will do everything it can to keep this country out of war," declared President Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking from Hyde Park at the end of the week.

At the same time, Secretary of State Cornell Hull assured the League of Nations of the moral support of the United States in any decided stand against the Japanese invasion of China.

Ketchikan Salmon Pack Not So Big

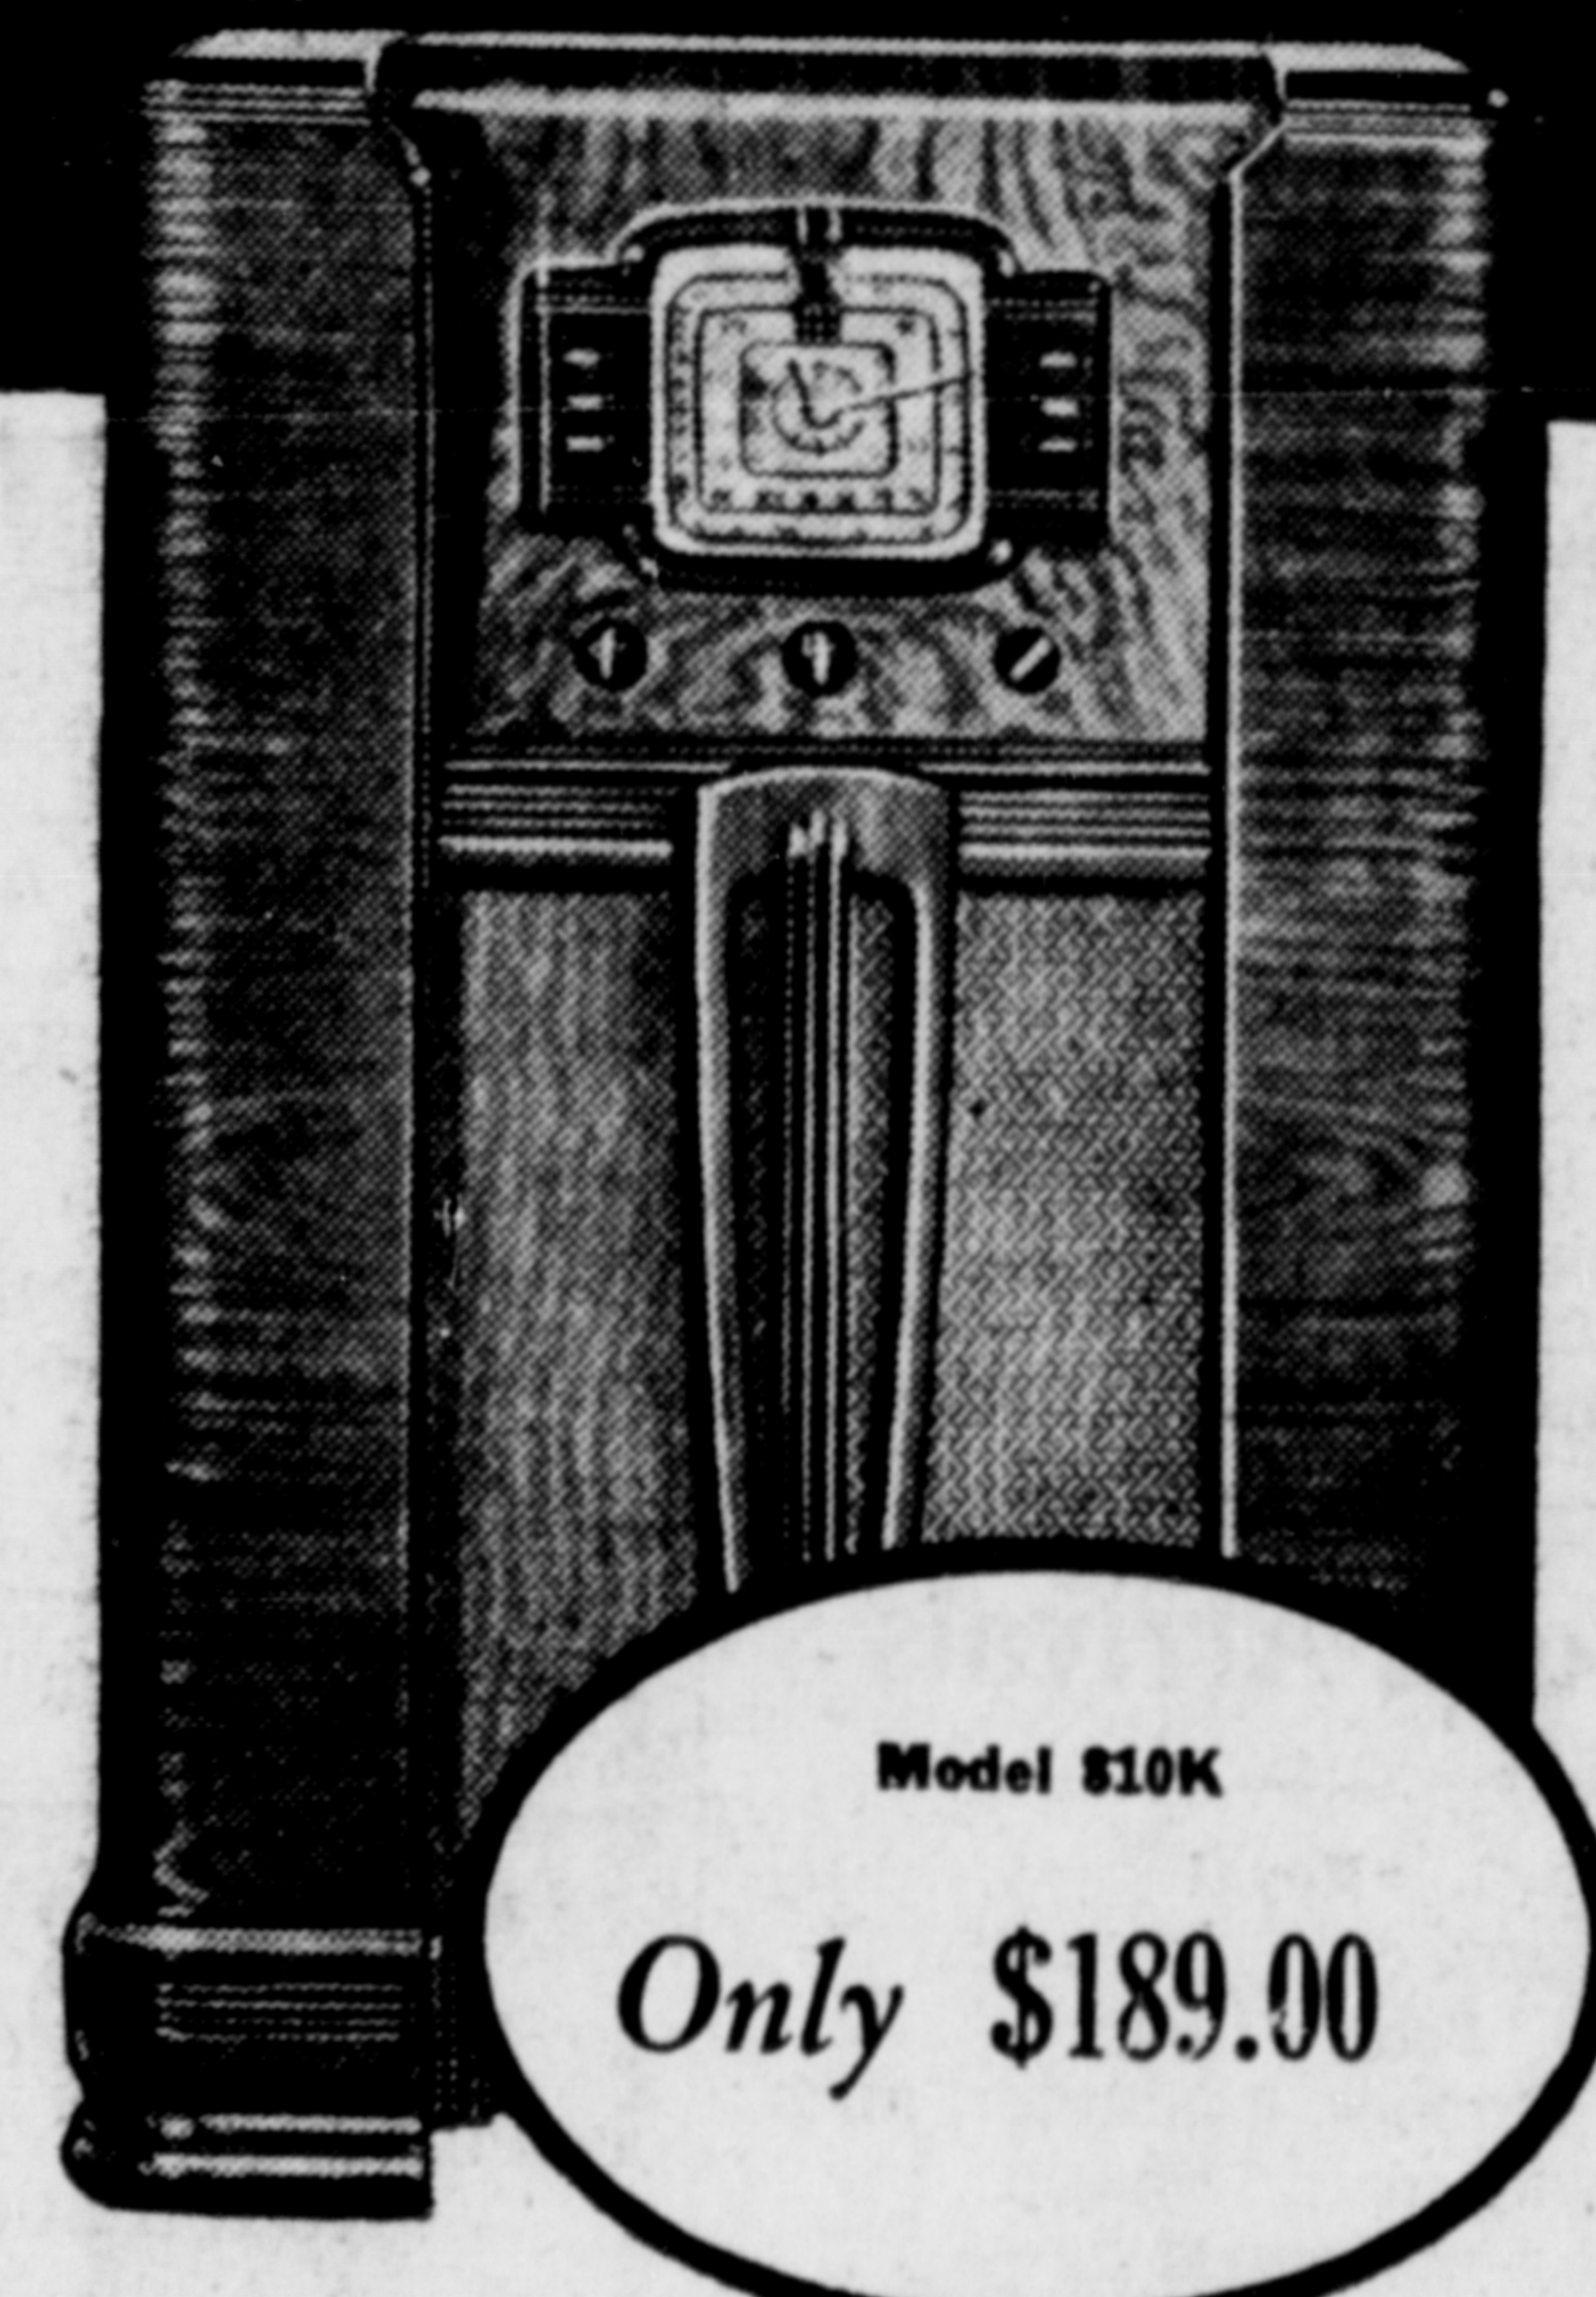

The salmon pack at Ketchikan this season has not been as large as in some years of the past but to the most of the operators it has been profitable owing to the improved price of canned almon, according to word received from the Alaskan cannery city. Several of the canneries in that area are continuing in operation to put up fall varieties.
