GET RIGHT FOCUS

When a photographer is focussing his camera on a small object he often obliterates the big objects behind by throwing them out of focus and they appear on the photograph as a blur. Many people are like the eye of the camera. They see the little things in the foreground but miss altogether the big things behind which are really the most important part of the picture.

That is what happens often in politics. It is part of the art of the small politician to throw on the screen only the petty things with which he hopes to influence the public and to focus out of the picture the big moves which mean so much to the country. That is what some Vancouver newspapers have been doing of late. They have been playing the game of the petty politician, quibbling over non-essentials and passing over the policies and moves which are of great importance to British Columbia.

VILLAGE POLITICS

So also we find in the small town. There is a great tendency often to play village politics. We find people appealing to local prejudices on petty questions and trying to obscure the big vision of the present and future. We are not referring to any particular incidents just now although we might mention many. All we ask is that people forget their petty prejudices and try to see the general good of Prince Rupert as their focal point.

A NATIONAL SPIRIT

What is likely to cause the war in the Orient to last a long time is the national spirit that is being displayed on either side. Japan has an idea that she can control the Pacific just as Mussolini has it in his mind Italy should control the Mediterranean. The soldiers of that nation never expect to be beaten. In China of late years this national spirit has been kindled and it remains for the future to say if it is sufficiently deep seated to insure final victory. It was the idea that Germany could whip the world that made her fight long and terribly from 1914 to 1918 and even then he did not give up the idea. Since 1918 she has been planning how she can come back and Hitler gave her the opportunity.

Canada, unfortunately, has not yet developed that national spirit which can make her a power in the world. She has a French population that seems inclined to lay more stress on overturning English-speaking financial control than on serving the nation as a whole. Possibly, it is the fault of the financiers more than of the politicians but, at any rate, it makes the development of a national spirit difficult. Besides that there is a section of the population that is always thinking and talking of the ills of the downtrodden and forgetting wholly the destiny of the nation. If there are ills, they should be remedied. But in the meantime, while this is being done we may get the idea that Canada is a country that is worth defending, that the Canadian people have a great destiny and that there is something more important in life than the vaporings of the demagogue.

Some day we shall develop a national spirit but this will come about more through the influence of the public schools after the present prejudiced generation has died off than by any present attempt to manufacture Canadians from the conglomeration of nationalities that make up our population.

SUCCEEDS BALDWIN AS PRIME MINISTER

SMITHERS

T. P. Devlin, western manager of the Department of Colonization and Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways with headquarters in Winnipeg, made a trip through the Bulkley Valley last week. He was accompanied by Harry Bowman of Prince George. Mr. Devlin expressed himself as being much pleased with the fine crops of the interior country and the condition of agriculture in general there.

Road work in this district is drawing to a close for the season following the making of many valuable improvements. Silver Lake, Babine and Driftwood Creek roads all received considerable attention with excellent results.

Two charges against James Stynoff, section foreman, were dismissed by Stipendiary Magistrate R. L. Gale after an all-day hearing in police court here last Tuesday.

Tommy Thait and Sam Pierre, Hazelton Indians, were each sentenced to six months' imprisonment by Stipendiary Magistrate R. L. Gale last Tuesday for theft from W. J. Larkworth's garage at New Hazelton. They were apprehended by Provincial Constable Andrew Grant of Hazelton who traced the goods to their possession.

Mrs. J. W. Turner entered the Smithers Hospital last week for surgical treatment.

J. C. Carpenter, well known Canadian National Railways engineer here, has returned to Smithers after undergoing a serious operation in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Warner will be leaving Smithers shortly to take up future residence in Vancouver.

Arthur Wrinch, son of Dr. H. C. Wrinch, was married on Saturday in Ottawa where he is now located.
