Hysterical Condition

The world seems to be in an hysterical condition just now largely as a result of the growing menace of competition in armaments. The war spirit seems to have been aroused in a great many countries and only extreme calmness on the part of leaders will avert a catastrophe. Russia and Japan seem to find it difficult to keep from fighting each other and yet each country professes to be anxious to keep the peace. There is nothing to indicate that either country wishes war and yet there is continual trouble along the border and the killing of citizens of either country by the other is bound to cause trouble sooner or later.

In Europe the situation is even worse for the countries seem to be trying to manipulate their opponents into positions in which they may be forced to fight. Happily, Great Britain is steadily regaining her former strength which she lost in the hope that other nations would follow her example. Every day that passes places her in a better position and, the stronger she is, the less likely is there to be war.

Russia's Weakness

It has been suggested that Russia's weakness is her internal divisions. With many of her best leaders removed because of their lack of sympathy with the present governing power, there is bound to be a loss of national inspiration in the army which may prove fatal in case of a clash with a foreign power. No one can doubt that the rank and file of the army must have a great deal of sympathy with their old, tried and trusted officers.

Our Language

The average person does not use many words but uses them often. Some people get along nicely with about five hundred or less. People who are widely read usually manage to use a thousand to fifteen hundred but good writers, real literary men, use a good many more.

Some words are very much overworked. One who has studied the subject says that children and shop girls use "okay" much more often than they should. People who are in close touch with Hollywood use the words "terrific" and "lousy." People connected with the advertising business overwork the word "contact." In society the word "definitely" is heard much too often. Broadway is the place where you hear "gal." Tradesmen get offensively monotonous with the word "racket." Interior decorators are very fond of the word "swell." Columnists and other commentators have a fondness for "impact" while stockbrokers play too much with the word "honey." People of education and charm are those who avoid these words that are overworked to such an extent as to become almost vulgar.

Possibly the best rule to follow is to use the word best suited to the occasion but not to use it too often. Even a vulgar word is sometimes useful. The language is rich in words but the people who use them do not realize the riches they miss when they fail to make use of them.

Trend of Music Said Classical

SAINT JOHN, N.B., July 2: (CP)—"The trend of music today is back to the classical," Walter S. Clapperton, professor of music at McGill University, said when he visited Saint John to examine students taking McGill courses in music.

"The radio has brought music into the homes of everybody and it is there for people to take advantage of, a great multitude of whom have done so. Radio listeners can procure scores, if they wish, and beside their radios they can listen and criticize as never before. Furthermore, more people are interested in this type of music today than are generally given credit for."

Folk music exists in New Brunswick, said Prof. Clapperton. "Even now one of our associates, Prof. W. J. Smith, of Fredericton, is busily engaged in seeking this. In the summer he will visit the lumber camps to learn the tunes of the lumbermen throughout the province and also visit the country folk."

WHIFFLETS From the Waterfront

With a list of upwards of 175 round trip tourists in addition to a number of local people and passengers proceeding east from here by train, C. N. R. steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. Neil McLean, arrived in port at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon from Vancouver, Powell River and Ocean Falls and sailed at 5 p.m. for Skagway and other Alaska points whence she will return here Monday southbound. The Prince Rupert had been delayed by loading a circus outfit at Powell River for Ketchikan.

Returning south after a specially scheduled cruise to Alaska which took in a number of points not ordinarily included on the time-tables, C. P. R. steamer Princess Charlotte, Capt. William Palmer, arrived here at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the north and sailed at 9 p.m. for Vancouver. The vessel had in all 219 passengers. Two disembarked here.

Having among her passengers quite a large party of tourists who will transfer to the steamer Prince George today to make the round trip to Anxox, Stewart and thence to Vancouver Saturday evening, C. N. R. steamer Prince Charles, Capt. James Watt, arrived in port at 7 o'clock yesterday morning from Vancouver via the Queen Charlotte Islands. The vessel will sail Saturday night at 10 o'clock on her return south over the same route.

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, is due in port at 11:30 tonight from the south and will sail a couple of hours later for Vancouver and waypoints.

MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING

for a most terrible conflict." These were views with which Capt. H. dano said he concurred. In cloth he was quoted from a Daily News editorial stressing the necessity of international goodwill. This was something which he hoped organizations such as the Gyro Club would endeavor to promote.

Olof Hanson

Olof Hanson, in his remarks, declared that the Dominion government was endeavoring to create international goodwill, maintain peace and promote trade with all nations. All were aware of the strides that the Japanese nation was making. Coming in contact by means of such visitations as that of the Kaiwo Maru should help to promote goodwill, peace and trade. The Japanese were an industrious people trying to get along. He hoped that the captain of the Kaiwo Maru, on his return to Japan, would make a favorable report on the port of Prince Rupert as a result of which there would be mutual benefits.

Dr. Brocklesby, in his introductory remarks, made reference to the accomplishments of Japanese in the field of science. Visits such as that of Kaiwo Maru should assist in the seeing of each others' viewpoints the better. He hoped the stay of the ship's company in Prince Rupert would be entirely pleasant.
