A SILLY DISCUSSION

Following a court decision in Hamilton in which a man was said to be right in chastising his wife, - a Victoria newspaper has been interviewing many people with a view to finding out what was the local opinion on the subject.

We suggest that, for the dog days, the subject may be allowed but it should be relegated to a humor department. No matter what the common law of England, modern common sense will prevail in such matters. To discuss them seriously is to be extremely silly.

LIKE MARKETING CONTROL

The people who come under the Marketing Act seem to like it. By insuring a steady market for farm produce instead of glutting the market at times and then having a period of scarcity the growers and the people of the province should benefit. While there are objections to interfering with the liberty of the individual, it has been shown that there are times when this liberty may be curbed with benefit to the whole community. Many of us have disliked this interference with personal liberty but it is in line with the spirit of the age and may eventually develop into a general scheme which will benefit the whole country.

Looks Like Record Entry List For Jasper Park Totem Trophy

JASPER PARK, Aug. 12: - "We have more than seventy reservations already for the annual Totem Pole Golf tournament to be played here September 5 to 11 and these reservations, coming so far in advance of former years, lead us to believe that our tournament this year will assume record-breaking proportions," reclared Robert Sommerville, manager of Jasper Park Lodge here today.

"Our golf course has had such heavy patronage this year that word has been spread around of its excellent condition. A large number of the reservations this year come from those who have participated in previous tournaments but it is pleasing to note that many of who have not yet competed for our Totem Pole," he said.

"Last year there were 184 competitors in the tournament, which makes a big competition from any Rand the entries come in during the ing big crowds. latter part of August, it begins to look as if the tournament this year will establish an all-time record.
