VALUABLE TESTS BEING MADE

The war between Japan and China is giving to other powers some very interesting information as to the value of air forces in time of war. There had been lots of rumors as to the real value of airplanes and modern bombs in attacking and also in defense. It was said that London could be almost immediately wiped out by modern air armaments and that the defenses would prove quite futile.

Without trying to minimize the value of the airplane as a means of attack, it is being shown that they also have value as a means of defense. Britain is building airplanes as fast as they can be turned out. In a few months that country will be in a position to not only defend its own coasts but also to carry the war into any European enemy country. It is a terrible situation but it must be remembered that it works both ways. Any European country setting out to attack another must be prepared to receive blow for blow and the losses will be heavy on either side. There will be no such thing as digging in and holding ground indefinitely. Non-combatants are in as perilous a situation as those taking part in the war, possibly worse. Doubtless, Britain is learning much from the successes and failures of the Japanese and will revise her defenses accordingly.

Those Canadians who feel that they should take no part in world affairs must by now realize that no country can live to itself under modern conditions. As has been said by journalists and others, we live in a land-hungry world and if we are not prepared to settle our own lands and prepare to defend them we shall soon find ourselves in a position where somebody will want them badly enough to wrest them from us and non-combatants will find it just as dangerous as those who are willing to take part in their defense.

ECONOMISTS VIEWS

The views of the Royal Bank economist are often interesting. In the current issue of the monthly letter he sees hope for future world improvement in the rearming of Great Britain and the recovery in the United States, both of which means the increase of purchasing power. The increased debt, he says, is partly offset by the increase of the price of commodities. He also suggests that prosperity is a solvent that will improve human relationships. It will not only tend to do away with the present intense nationalism of so many countries but the antagonism between classes within countries will be softened. He says there are no fundamental factors in the present situation likely to bring about a decline in the demand for goods, a decline in profits or a decline in prices. The fear of deflation seems to have affected the world markets temporarily but he thinks this fear is not justified in a world where the need of goods is as great as it is today.

RESUMING FOOTBALL

Junior League Getting Into Action Again—Changes in Rules Made

The Junior Football executive was in session last evening and completed plans for the opening of the 1937-1938 football season. The resignation of Miss S. A. Mills as secretary-treasurer was accepted with regret. For many years Miss Mills has been of very great value in carrying on the work of the junior association and the members hope that next year she will be back again. J. H. Nordan was appointed secretary-treasurer.

Letters of condolence will be sent to Mrs. H. B. Rochester whose late husband had donated the Rochester Shield, the trophy awarded to the winner of the league. The death of S. D. Macdonald was also a great loss to the footballers and a suitable letter will be sent Mrs. Macdonald.

Donations from the Prince Rupert Gyro Club, the Dominion Day Celebration Committee and the Coronation Celebration Committee were acknowledged with sincere thanks.

Preliminary plans for the annual banquet were discussed.

Rules Changed

An important change in the rules was made when the executive decided that substitutes would be allowed. Each team will be allowed to use two substitutes in a game but no player may be used twice in any game.

The schedule for the fall series was then drawn up:

Sept. 25 — Booth Memorial School vs. Borden Street School.
 Oct. 2 — King Edward High School vs. Borden Street School.
 Oct. 9 — Booth Memorial School vs. King Edward High School.
 Oct. 16 — Borden Street School vs. Booth Memorial School.
 Oct. 23 — King Edward High School vs. Borden Street School.
 Oct. 30 — Booth Memorial School vs. King Edward High School.
 Nov. 6 — Borden Street School vs. Booth Memorial School.
 Nov. 13 — King Edward High School vs. Borden Street School.
 Nov. 20 — Booth Memorial School vs. King Edward High School.

Games will start at 2 p.m. every Saturday.

An appeal is being made for referees. Senior players are asked to help their juniors by turning out and assisting with refereeing the games.

A. Sutton, W. W. C. O'Neill, A. G. McKinley and J. H. Nordan were present with J. S. Wilson in the chair.

The Daily News has an audited circulation. Play safe!

KING MAY BUILD NEW L CLASS YACHT

Since the recent discussion of a possible change from J to L class yachts for future competition in the America's Cup races, the Royal Yacht Squadron of England has suggested that King George VI head a movement favoring a new type of yacht. This model would be smaller than the large J class boats such as Ranger and Endeavor, and would cost considerably less to build. In England, it is reported, a growing feeling exists in yachting circles that the sport would benefit by such a substitution. The King and Queen, both ardent nautical enthusiasts, are pictured here aboard their yacht. His majesty reportedly is considering the request.

CUBS TAKE IN GIANTS

Lead of New York in National League Reduced to One Game And Half

CHICAGO, Sept. 22: (CP) — Chicago Cubs defeated New York Giants in a crucial National League game yesterday, the lead of the Giants over the Cubs in the pennant race being, as a result, reduced to one game and a half. St. Louis Cardinals defeated Brooklyn Dodgers in both ends of a double header and went into tie for third place with Pittsburgh Pirates who were winning one from Boston Bees.

In the National League, the leading New York Yankees and the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Browns were idle and the results of other games involved no changes in the standings.

Man in the Moon

You do not have to get the jitters in order to dance well. Jake says all he needs to make him dance is a few urges such as they get in the back room or beneath the overcoats in the cloak room.

Another gas company is to be established in Prince Rupert. Jake says he thinks it queer we have to pay for our gas, yet we get hot air free.

It may also be considered queer that the government charges a heavy duty on gas, yet allows hot air to be peddled by everybody anywhere all the time with no suggestion of a tax on the product.

Jake says he will vote for the pulp mill because the hot air period in connection with seems to have passed.

Another gas works is to open in Victoria next month, according to the despatches from the Capital. The date set for the opening is October 26.

British Columbia's chief air artist is said to be preparing for a great exhibition on or about that date.

All is in readiness for the public works department at Ottawa to check up on the plans for the Prince Rupert post office. Work may yet start on it this year early in next.

It looks to us as if the Ottawa government could with benefit to itself dispense with the services of one or two of its servants. But if it did, the old Province would declare it was a political move designed to find a job for a politician.

President Roosevelt is to visit British Columbia. . . . Yes, we guessed it. He is to make arrangements for the building of the Alaska Highway. What other reason could there be?

People who saw the fight pictures at the show this week are still wondering.

I wonder if it would be loyal to mention that the new had a much prettier style than the big Welshman, who expended so much energy hopping about the ring and displaying his arms.

It is said that when the young British fighter commenced his career a fortune teller told him he would go Farr.

Evidently he went as far as the negro and he may yet get below over or around that wonderful quiet dark skin defence and into the big money.
