Sea Cadets Are Enjoying Camp

Despite Weather Conditions, Outing at Dodge Island Is Proving Happy One

Although the rainy weather has been hampering outside activities and keeping the boys indoors more than otherwise would have been the case, some twenty members of the local Sea Cadets Corps, in two weeks camp at Dodge Island, are a very happy time with Chief Petty Officer Instructor J. Anslow in charge. The newly obained quarters in the old quaranine hospital are proving very comfortable and the boys themselves are making a number of improvements. Regular camp routine is being carried on. Rising time is 7 a.m. with lights out at 9:30 p.m. Mornings are spent in work and afternoons and evenings in recreational activities. There are regular watches for various duties.

Members of the Navy League Canada, parents of the boys and others will pay a visit to the camp on Sunday, boats leaving at noon.
