TRUE GREATNESS

In the old days nobody amounted to anything unless they had taken part in the wars. Since then times have changed and we find many men and women being honored for serving their country faithfully in other walks of life. One of these was Sir Charles Saunders, the man who by persistent effort developed the well known marquis wheat, which was so well suited to conditions on the Canadian prairies that it changed the whole course of wheat raising in this country.

A single head of Marquis wheat was harvested in 1903. The seed in 1904 sent up 12 plants which yielded less than a pound of grain. In 1906 there were about two-thirds of a bushel, enough to make possible a further study of its properties. In 1907 23 pounds of seed were sent to the experimental farm at Indian Head, Sask. In 1908 it was tested at Brandon, Man. Those were bad years for wheat crops in Western Canada but Marquis did well and hopes that the problem of the western wheat grower was solved rode high. In 1909 distribution to the public started.

The story of the rise in popularity of Marquis wheat brings in the name of a world champion wheat grower, Wheeler of Rasthern, Sask. He was known as a good farmer and in 1910, Dr. Saunders sent him five bushels from which he grew 250 pounds, a tremendous yield. In 1911 a prize of $1000 was offered for the best wheat shown at an international exhibition in New York. Wheeler entered his Marquis and won the prize.

That was the first of a long line of world prizes won by Marquis wheat for both Canadian and American growers, mostly Canadian, at international exhibitions. Wheeler won the world championship at Chicago year after year and other Canadian champions followed in his path, usually with Marquis wheat. The practical effect of the award, however, was to send wheat growers into a clamor for Marquis seed and soon it was growing everywhere in the western provinces and western states.

Sir Charles served his country for 22 years and ill-health forced him to retire at the age of 58 on a modest pension. Later a grateful government voted him an annual grant of $5000 for life and in 1934 the King recognized his service to Canada and the Empire by making him a knight bachelor.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW

Professor Barss of the University of British Columbia is being sent by the Provincial Government this year to judge at the annual flower show at Prince Rupert and also to judge the gardens. The big event takes place the middle of next month and horticulturists all over the city will be interested to take part in the show and possibly enter their gardens. Those who do not expect to win may be anxious to find out how their gardens rank and to get the criticism of the judge.

The Horticultural Society is to be congratulated on getting so good a man. Dr. Barss is professor of horticulture for the University of British Columbia and as such his views on local flower growing efforts should be of great value.

CURIOUS SLANT

A curious slant on the mentality of a good many people is obtained from their attitude toward the present Spanish embroglio. For a number of years members of "the working class" as they are styled have been urged by their newspapers to take part in the next war, yet when the struggle started in Spain the governments friendly to democracy were urged to take a chance on precipitating a war by taking sides in Spain against the insurgent forces. Even today many would have the British Empire fight for the government side in Spain, forgetting that for years they had been preaching peace at any price.

ENGLAND WINNER

Beat New Zealand in Second Cricket Test Match

MANCHESTER, July 27:—England won rather decisively over the New Zealand cricket team in the second test match today by a margin of 130 runs.

The British team found runs hard to get in their second innings. They had lost seven wickets for 75 runs before Ames with a valuable free-hit 27 came to the rescue. England were all out for 187 runs leaving the New Zealanders 265 to get to win.

The visitors put on 50 runs for the first wicket but found the English bowling very steady and in spite of a fine innings by Donnelly they were all out for 134. The New Zealanders put up a fine fight but as a team they seem to be hardly up to the standard of test match play. Their fine keen sportsmanship is a tonic and is in keeping with the highest traditions of the game.

The first game was played last month and resulted in a draw. The third and final match is scheduled for London, August 14.

FINE TEAM FOR CANADA

Cricketers Who Are to Visit This Coast Will Include Number Of Excellent Players

TORONTO, July 27:—A team of thirteen cricket players is expected to arrive here in a few days to start a tour of all Canada. From these the eleven will be chosen. The members of the team are as follows:

G. C. Newman, 33, Middlesex and Oxford University. A powerful hitter in front of the wicket and a medium-pace bowler. He made 112 against Gloucestershire in 1929, his highest score in first class cricket.

H. J. Enthoven, 34, Middlesex and Cambridge University. A strong all-round player who has several centuries to his credit. He has twice performed the hat-trick at Lords, on the second occasion when playing for his county against the Australians in 1934. He captained Cambridge in 1925.

N. G. Wykes, 31, Essex and Cambridge University. Tall, left-hand first-wicket batsman who is also rated one of the best fielders in English cricket. The Light Blue is now a master at Eton. He captained Essex in a number of matches late in 1935.

A. G. Powell, 24, Essex and Cambridge University. A polished wicketkeeper, he got his Blue in 1934 and has made frequent appearances for his county. He was a member of the M. C. C. team that toured Australia and New Zealand 1935-36.

A. P. Singleton, 23, Worcestershire and Oxford University. Captain of Oxford University this year, he is a clever right-hand off spin bowler who has done well in first-class matches. Although low in the batting order, he often scores freely.

J. M. Brocklebank, 22, Cambridge University. A nephew of Sir Stanley Jackson, noted Yorkshire cricketer, he is a deadly leg-break bowler. On last year's Varsity match he captured 10 Oxford wickets for 139 runs.

K. A. Sellar, 31, Essex and Royal Navy. A right-hand batsman and smart fielder who made 55 for the Incogniti against Hon. R. C. Atthens' Canadian team last year. He is better known as a rugby player and on several occasions has represented his country at full-back.

N. M. Ford, 30, Derbyshire and Oxford University. Member of a well-known cricketing family, he is a tall, forcing batsman and useful change bowler. He played for Oxford in 1928-29-30.

J. T. Neve, Band of Brothers, Kent. A good medium-pace stock bowler, he captured eight wickets for sixteen runs when playing for West Kent recently and earlier in the season, assisting Sir Walter Lawrence's Eleven against Trinity Tom Tits took six for 29.

J. F. Mendl, Oxford University. A former captain of Repton, he has not played in first-class cricket but is good opening batsman of the forcing type.

The other members of the touring team are C. H. Taylor, Leicestershire and Oxford University, J. C. Masterman, Christ Church, Oxford, and D. W. Forbes, Eton.

ORRICE WINS AGAIN WIMEREUX, France, July 27: (CP)—K. A. S. Morrice, former Oxford golf champion, has retained his title as champion of Northern France. In the final he defeated Stuart Scheffel of United States at the 19th hole.

POLO ON BICYCLES LONDON, July 27: (CP)—Bicycle polo has been introduced successfully at the Hurlingham Club and since the initial experiment on the noted polo ground several "wheel" matches have been held.

Men's Doubles Joe Scott and Donald Blake defeated Benny Lee and W. Blitch, 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 3-6, 6-4.

OUT FOR THE SEASON

NORTHAMPTON, July 27: (CP)—Announcement that A. H. Bakewell, international batsman who was severely injured in a motor accident last year, will be unable to play this season comes as a bad blow to Northamptonshire Cricket Club, now at the bottom of the county championship table.

FLASH!! HERE COMES HOOKLESS BAIT

"Hookless bait," a boon(?) to still fishermen has been discovered by Wayne Robinson, of Ottawa, an Ontario game warden. No more will it be necessary to bait your hook every few nibbles; no more of that, for this is really an invention; an invention destined to put "live bait" sellers out of business. In fact, the manufacturer (perhaps yourself, for it has not been put on the market yet) may even coin the slogan: "A worm a year," for that's how good it is. What? You want to know the secret? Well, listen closely. The new "hookless bait" consists of placing a live, wiggling worm inside a small glass bottle which is filled with water and capped with a metal stopper. Under the surface the worm is magnified and it wiggles in a most natural and alluring manner. Hungry pike and pickerel strike at the bottle and more often than not swallow the bottle and all. Then all you have to do is remove the bottle and start fishing all over again. Some invention, what? And what is more, a patent has not been applied for. That means this is your chance. The Ontario Fish and Game authorities are just a wee bit sceptical.

AFTER NEW PLAYERS

LONDON, July 27: (CP)—Arsenal is after new players, states manager G. Allison but the famous London soccer club is making no purchases until certain the new men will prove better than those now on the roster.

PLUCKY VETERAN JOCKEY

NTOOINGHAM, July 27: (CP)—"Brownie" Carslake may be 50 years old but he can take it. The well known jockey was unseated and badly bruised but announced he would be riding the next day.

Winners from the Start

Remember the day your crew won the senior eights? Even now you can't see the sun shining on a glassy stretch of water without recalling the thrills of that great day... the clean, strong sweep of the sculls... the fast stroke—42 to the minute... the lead you took and held from start to finish! And how good it was to stretch out on the turf afterwards, and enjoy a cool, fragrant pipeful of Old Chum!

How refreshing that Old Chum was—and still is, any day, any time! Truly, "There is no other tobacco just like Old Chum". Cut coarse for the pipe, cut fine for rolling your own.

There is no other tobacco just like Old Chum. OLD CHUM The Tobacco of Quality
