SPORTS

WHAT FREDDIE WELSH EATS.

Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, has issued the following signed statement to a Los Angeles paper:

"I would like my friends to know the authentic facts regarding my much discussed diet while training for my fights."

"Before I commenced my boxing career I experimented with different diets and foods with a view of finding a diet that would produce the very best results in endurance, speed and stamina. After a couple of years of research and experimenting upon myself while I was a boy I finally came to the conclusion that I produced much more strength, speed, endurance and stamina while training on a non-meat diet. It was because I convinced myself of the greater practical results of a vegetable diet that I abstained from meat when I entered the boxing profession."

"The first two years in the game was an uphill fight for recognition as a first-class boxer, and as I did not make as much money then as I have been fortunate enough to make of recent years, I was obliged to remain in one locality, boxing as often as I could for the small purses offered. Sometimes I would be compelled to box several times each week to pay my room rent and buy myself the modest vegetarian meals which I was able to get at a nearby vegetarian restaurant. For two years, while I lived in this modest way, I was a strict vegetarian and I have never felt better in my life."

"Later I was compelled to travel around the world, living at hotels, cafes, on board ocean liners and on dining cars, which I soon found meant that I was forced to eat anything that I could get. It is a difficult thing to secure a suitable vegetarian diet at the ordinary hotel or cafe. I have never claimed that I was a strict vegetarian. Others have done that for me. But I have always contended that I have trained always on a strictly non-meat diet, which is the truth."

"I am sorry that the circumstances and the environment in which I am compelled to live as a boxing man makes it impossible for me to live as strictly free from unclean and malnutritious food as I would like. In winding up this statement I would like it known that I believe better results can be secured physically and mentally from two meals a day thoroughly Fletcherized, with meat entirely eliminated."

"Yours for a non-meat diet,"
"FRED WELSH."

DEVOTED PRINCIPALLY TO THE INTERESTS OF WOMEN

This is a little section of the paper, which from day to day will be devoted to subjects of special interest to women. Any and all of the ladies of Prince Rupert are invited to contribute to its columns, and to take part in its discussions. Suggestions and criticisms are invited by the editor. The hope is expressed that "The Cosy Corner" will fill a social need.

THAT EVENING GOWN

Vivid Colors and Elaborate Designs Fashionable This Winter.

This season gowns for evening wear are more striking than those of last winter, being more distinctive. The one-sided effect is more marked, the waist and skirt of one side being made of lace of net and the other side of satin, velvet or of the new brocades in shades that blend with the net or lace.

Vivid colors are still fashionable, and some wonderful shades of rose pink, empire green, royal purple and blue in satins, nets and soft tulle make most stunning gowns when trimmed with the rich embroideries that are made expressly for the colors and fabrics in use this season.

There are few absolutely simple evening gowns. Almost all are made with draperies or have double skirts, while heavy embroidered or jeweled tunics are smarter than ever. They are so fashioned that the double skirt effect is well defined and the tunic in many of the French gowns is draped or caught at the side with jeweled ornaments.

Straight lines are still in vogue and the slender lines just as obligatory as in the past few years.

WEAR DINGLE DANGLES

That is If You Want to Be in the Height of Fashion.

Long dingle dangle earrings, huge hoop earrings, with no pendant, others with a dainty center piece, or round knobs on the ear lobes—every kind of an earring is fashionable. But be you young or old, rich or poor, beautiful or plain, if you are feminine your pink pearly ear must be decorated with some sort of an ornament.

This does not mean that a large amount of money must be spent. Far from it. It is just the other way. Diamonds, opals, pearls, sapphires and emeralds are worn in the ears if you are able to afford these precious gems, still the semi-precious stones are correct. There are also charming long dangles contrived of gold, silver and jet.

Some of the most effective earrings that the fashionable jeweler exposes to fascinate feminine eyes are long enough to touch the shoulders. Others are enormous jeweled hoops, while some take the form of birds, flowers and just decorate the lobe of the ear with a simple stone.

The earrings of today are made with a little clasp. This fastens onto the lobe and the bit of jewelry is perfectly secure.

A MEDAL WANTED.

Editor Daily News.

Dear Sir: In 1908 the Minister of Education told the chairman of the Chilliwack School Board that the Governor General's bronze medals were given "where there was the most or the greatest competition at the high school entrance examination."

Last July Prince Rupert passed eight pupils at this examination and its best scholar got 685 marks, yet it got no medal. Lady-smith passed seven pupils and its best pupil got only 634 marks, yet it got a medal. Cumberland passed only six pupils and its best scholar got only 672 marks, but it also got a medal.

This proves that Prince Rupert had a better claim to a bronze medal than either of those places.

FIRST: "CATCH YOUR PRINTER"

DIRECTIONS FOR COOKING A HARE: FIRST—"CATCH YOUR HARE"

To produce good printing you must "first catch your printer." You can't get good printing from a poor printer, even if he works with never so good an equipment. If he lacks the "knack," the trained taste, the single-minded fondness for his work which real printers have, he will do poor printing for you. If he has all of these,
