Trustees For Civilization

It is significant that the representative of the British government to Canada spoke last week of the British Empire being a trustee for the civilization of the world. It is a high and noble position.

Many people are apt to make light of the British Empire or to look on it as an oppressive organization for the purpose of bolstering up trade and commerce and making money for the rich. That idea is being fostered by some of Substantial Sum the red elements in the English speaking countries. Now comes the representative of the highest British authority and gives his view of the mission of the Empire. It is to act as trustee for democracy. While there was any sign of compulsion the Dutch of South Africa were out to renounce the Empire but, given their rein, they soon swung in with the British and fought for them. In Eastern Canada there is a French nationalist movement developing but, when the time comes to Fred Roberge tackle the problem of going it alone or joining forces with some other nation, they will find it better to be in a position to give play to the highest form of patriotism by helping the Empire act as trustees for modern civilization.
