FISHERIES MENACED

Monday, November 27, 1937

DAILY EDITION

Japan has been operating 26 floating canneries off the North American coast this year, according to Harry Stuhr, representative of the Alaska Fishermen's Union in placing the facts before the State Department at Washington says the Victoria Times. These floating canneries have been taking the salmon that would normally return to British Columbia and Alaska rivers to make up the runs on which Canadian and United States land canneries operate. The Japanese are now beginning to cut in on the halibut banks off our northern coast upon which are based the fishery industries of Prince Rupert and other ports.

But Canada and United States are not alone in being subjected to Japanese invasion of their fisheries. Australia faces a similar threat to her pearl and trochus shell industries. The extent of Japanese poaching operations has resulted in the Australian government commissioning a patrol vessel. Off the Australian coast as in these northern waters, it has been found poaching has been carried on in an organized, large-scale manner, that indicates it is not without the knowledge and even the active support of the Japanese government.

Australia has been moved to protest diplomatically at Tokyo. Labor organizations along this coast have taken the lead in rousing the public to the menace to one of our chief industries. The Canadian and United States governments should not be found lagging in any efforts to safeguard our coastal fisheries.

Japan has already moved to forestall protests from this side, continues the Times. On behalf of the Japanese Department of Agriculture, Dr. Seiji Konda has proposed a plan for the United States and Canada to join with Japan in a scientific investigation of the North American fisheries. Only too well has The Seattle Times described! it as a "remarkable proposal." For in such an association of three nations, Japan's interest in these fisheries would Bowling Standings be recognized, and Japan's interest, as we are very well aware, is not purely scientific.

WOULD END COMMISSION

Editor, Daily News:

It is about four years since we had a City Council in Prince Rupert. Now is the time for the people of Prince Rupert to ask that the present Commission be abolished and that they have a voice in control of their own affairs. Even North Vancouver and Burnaby are asking that they have the Municipal Council again. Why not Prince 11 13 11 Rupert?

SPORT CHAT

In the basketball game Friday night between teams from the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and the 102nd Batttery, the army took the lead from the start and kept it throughout the entire game. Halftime score was: Army, 20; Navy 9. Only at the beginning of the second half was the Navy threatening. They scored three baskets in quick succession to bring the score within a few points of being even. The Army, however, got these back and a few more to win out by a score of 38 to 28.

Individual scoring:

Navy-Davis 2, Eastman 10, Armstrong 6, McMeekin 5, Bryant 5, Bremner, Ritchie; total, 28.

Army-Gillies 4, Burnett 4, Houston 6. Blake 10. Johnson 14. Johnston; total 38.

In the first game Grottettes met a reorganized Annette's team. Annette's have obtained the services of two stars from last years' High School team in the persons of Tona Blaine and Thelma Davis. These additions, however, were not sufficient to hold the hard playing Grottettes who went through to win a well deserved victory of 14 to 7.

Referee was Johnny Comadina and scorer Bill Gordon. After the games refreshments were served by the ladies and a vote of thanks was tendered Lt. Col. S. D. Johnston for the use of the Armory.
