Artists Who Took Part in Moose Carnival Visit Institution and Entertain Patients and Staff

Dancing artists who took part in the Moose Carnival last week visited the Prince Rupert General Hospital Saturday afternoon and put on a delightful terpsichoran entertainment which was enjoyed by patients and staff alike.

One of the most interested of the patients was young Pat Ratchford who has been in the institution for the past couple of months suffering from injuries sustained in a bicycle accident. Pat himself would have been one of the dancers had it not been for the accident.
