..om the aviatrix this morning saying that she was down 281 miles north of Howland Island in a sinking condition and unable to hold out much longer.

Two Japanese vessels and a British freighter, the Moorby, have joined the search which is now expected to turn southward from Howland Island.

More than 102 planes, ten ships and three thousand men are now engaged in the search.

Fear is growing that some of the many radio signals which are purported to have come from Miss Earhart may have been in the nature of a hoax.
