WOULD SEND HERRING

Editor, Daily News:
Re drought stricken areas of prairie provinces. I see that Prince Rupert has formed a committee to take up subscriptions for the poor people back on the prairies and also that other parts of B.C. have donated fruit and vegetables. Do you not think it would be a good thing if Prince Rupert sent these people some herring? They are very cheap here, and I think if the different packing companies were approached they would readily donate them free and the railway company would, in all probability, haul them free also.
It would be a great treat for these poor people and also a good boost for Prince Rupert. As I am writing this, I can see the sea gulls helping themselves to a scow load of herring at the wharf. I am quite sure the prairie people would appreciate them a great deal more and there would still be plenty left for the sea gulls.

JAPANESE GOODS

Editor, Daily News:
Let us not become hysterical about this Japanese boycott until we know all the facts of the case. I venture to say that the Japanese manufacturers received the money for every dollar's worth of goods that is on the Canadian merchant's shelves and in the wholesale warehouses, a considerable time before the Japanese were considered a menace. In a great many cases Japanese manufacturers demand payment in advance to finance their factories. So why penalize the Canadian merchant who was only trying to meet the public's demand for low priced merchandise when he stocked Japanese goods.
The Canadian public could well voice its opinion of Japanese aggression by demanding that no more goods be purchased from that country. Doubtless the wholesalers and merchants feel just as keenly about it as the consumer does and will not wish to patronize them in future.

Here's another woman who felt terrible until she found how to get back appetite, sleep soundly, and secure new health. Mrs. A. H. "Last Train from Madrid" deals with ten persons, most of them strangers to each other, whose destinies are dramatically brought together in a frenzied effort to attain passes to board the last train permitted to leave the beleaguered Spanish capital before the commencement of a heavy bombardment. Drama is provided by the conflict of a Spanish officer's emotions between devotion to the girl he loves and his best male friend. The cast includes Dorothy Lamour, Gilbert Roland, Lew Ayres, Karen Morley, Lionel Atwill, Helen Mack and Anthony Quinn.

In "Angel's Holiday" Jane Withers turns sleuth and plagues the lives of a murderous gang of kidnapers, there being plenty of fast and furious fun. Robert Kent, Joan Davis and Sally Blane are also featured.

Rev. Father James Gordon, parish priest of the Roman Catholic Church, was the speaker today at the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club. Dr. R. G. Large, past president, was in the chair in the absence of the president, Dr. H. N. Brockelsby, and there was a good attendance of members.

Guard your children's eyes with better light

Does your child push her nose into her work? That is a wellnigh unfailling sign of eye strain. It is a "stop, look and listen" warning to parents to make sure that a child is getting sufficient light, and without glare. Poor lighting is a serious matter. It may be the cause of eye defects that will not only hold a child back in school, but also throughout life.

Young eyes need plenty of light — well shaded, and free from glare. They need it, not in one place, but in every room in the house where any reading, studying or sewing is done. Ample light costs little, and is cheap eyesight protection.
