WHIFFLETS

From The Watertront

C.P.R. str. Princess Charlotte Capt. William Palmer, arrived in port at 8:30 this morning from Vancouver with a full list of passengers, consisting largely of round trip tourists, and sailed at 10:30 for Skagway and other Alaska points whence she will return here early Monday afternoon southbound. There were 226 passengers in all aboard the Princess Charlotte, 188 going through to Skagway and 188 being round-trippers. Seven passengers disembarked here and one went north from this port.

Following the closing down of Area No 2 to halibut fishing, a number of the smaller vessels of the Seattle fleet has turned to albacore fishing off the Washington and Oregon coasts. It is estimated that some fifteen boats have taken up this line. Yesterday two boats landed albacore at Seattle—the Irene J, 12,000 pounds, and the Swift II, 4,000, the former to the Sebastian-Stuart Fish Co. and the latter to San Juan, 3c. per pound being the price paid. The Eastern left Seattle yesterday for the albacore fishing grounds.

C.N.R. steamer Prince Rupert Capt. James Watt, arrived in port on time at 10 o'clock this morning from Vancouver, Powell River and Ocean Falls and sails at 3 o'clock this afternoon for Anyox and Stewart whence she will return here tomorrow evening southbound.

Only one boat landed halibut at Seattle yesterday, this being the F. C. Hearst which sold 1,000 pounds to Winz at 13¼c. per pound. The vessel took her halibut in Area No. 2 incidental to sable and rod fishing. For 7000 pounds of sable fish 5c. per pound was paid, for 3,000 pounds of ling cod, 2c., and for 4,000 pounds of red cod, 4c.

Delayed by making her monthly call at Kitimaat on the way up the coast, Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, is not expected in port until about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from the south and will sail soon thereafter on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

WOMEN AS BRITISHERS

Bill Restoring Rights of Wives of Foreigners in England Dropped

LONDON, Aug. 19: (CP)—A parliamentary knight errant has lost his fight to restore to British women their right to retain their nationality on marriage to foreigners and to regain nationality once they have lost it.

Because successive Imperial Conferences have not been able to agree on the principles laid down in Lord Alness' bill, the government rejected the effort of the former Secretary for Scotland and he withdrew the measure. Lord Alness is a Liberal.

British women in 1870 lost the right to retain their nationality if they married foreigners. Lord Alness' bill would have returned it to them, required foreign women marrying British men to fulfil the same requirements as men to obtain British nationality.

Forty women's societies in the United Kingdom, 120 in the Dominions as well as the International Council for Women, representing 31 nations, backed Lord Alness' bill.

The grey-haired baron in the House of Lords made a fervent plea for women's rights. He recalled a British women who married an alien was refused a British passport, lost her right to vote, lost the protection abroad of the British government, and if she sought a post in this country was often banned.

"Even though she never leaves this country, even though she does not speak a word of the language of her alien husband's country, she is doomed to perpetual alienage," he declared. "She is classed with minors and lunatics, and become a mere chattel in the household. Such a doctrine must be repugnant to all enlightened minds."

"Within the last few years I have had under personal observation several cases of intolerable indignity. In this matter we lag far behind the United States, China, Belgium, Rumania, Jugoslavia, Turkey, Albania, Cuba and Russia.

"At the same time, the law enables to become British, women who would not otherwise be allowed to remain in this country."

United Kingdom Favors

Lord Alness said the British government has frequently expressed itself in favor of the principle the bill laid down. He asked the government if it would summon an Imperial Conference, put nationality to the forefront, and try to persuade any dissenting dominions to come into line.

Lord Marley said obtaining nationality by marriage had led to a number of anomalies. Palestine had the highest portion of divorces in any country in the world. He suggested there were "profesional husbands" in that country where 50 per cent of the people who married were divorced within one year. That condition would have been dealt with under clauses of the bill.

The Earl of Munster, paymaster-general, replying for the government, however, speedily demolished the dream that British could advance alone. He pointed out that successive Imperial Conferences had been unable to agree, and impressed on the peers that the British government "attached the very highest importance to uniform legislation."

Lord Alness withdrew his bill, spoke of his "extreme disappointment" but added: "I am not surprised."

CO-STARRED FIRST TIME

Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper in "Blue Beard's Eighth Wife"

CLAUDETTE Colbert and Gary Cooper, co-starred for the first time, top the cast of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," end of the week feature picture on the screen of the Capitol Theatre. The story concerns a young American multi-millionaire who, after marrying and divorcing seven wives, marries an eighth who succeeds in taming him and bringing him love for the first time. Miss Colbert, in the role of a penniless French aristocrat who marries him for his money, accomplishes the miracle by letting him understand that she is one women he cannot wrap around his finger. Her weapons of coolness, indifference and stubborness, work wonders and, after nearly losing him by overplaying her hand, she finally brings about a happy ending.

There is sophisticated comedy against a continental background. Some of Europe's most glamorous pleasure spots figure prominently throughout the picture including the Rivera, where the wedding takes place, with honeymooning in Venice, Tyrol, Vienna, Switzerland and Paris resorts.

In addition to Cooper and Miss Colbert, the cast includes such favorites as Edward Everett Horton, David Niven, Elizabeth Patterson and Herman Bing.
