Large Number Attend Annual Event in Cathedral Hall With Colonel Nicholls Presiding

The annual men's banquet of St. Andrew's Cathedral was held last night in St. Andrew's Cathedral Hall and proved to be well up to the standard of these outstanding events. The Women's Auxiliary provided the dinner and served, Mrs. C. V. Evitt, president of the organization, and Mrs. Thomas Andrew being in charge.

Lieut.-Col. J. W. Nicholls presided in an able manner and there were no dull moments. The musical numbers included a piano duet by Mrs. Bernard Lundahl and Mrs. W. L. Stamford, songs by Len Cripps and J. S. Wilson and part songs by half a dozen of the members of the Varden Singers conducted by Peter Lien.

Rev. Roy Durnford made a brief address in the course of which he to think the atom was the smallest invited all present to visit Seal Cove church of which he is the new rec-

Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix, Bishop of Caledonia, was in a reminiscent mood. He said he had been in Prince Rupert for twenty-five years and had been bishop for ten years. He was particularly interested in the number of changes that had taken J. B. Gibson, Mrs. C. V. Evitt, Mrs place. He referred to the excellent service given the church by R. L. McIntosh who, he was sorry to the Women's Auxiliary. know, had refused to accept reappointment as church warden. The church owed a great debt to him. However, he was glad to know that his interest in the church would not lessen. He hoped his successor would fill the position as well.

faith in the church. He believed that the church of God was going to save the world. As Bishop he had a right to take the burden of carrying on from the shoulders of the older men and lay it on the younger men. He believed that every man should join some church. Young men should belong to the church of Christ and he knew of no better church than his own.

Dean Gibson spoke of the change of God. The older people seemed to have a keener conception of His Prensence. Of late years scientists had been pushing the curtain back and showing more of the universe. They were still finding new worlds. Scientists were also showing small things of which they had not dreamed in the old days. They used thing but now it was said that electrons moved around in the atom following definite laws. The church he said, stood for friendship, character and spiritual things.

Robert Yerberg proposed a toast to the ladies and Mrs. Evitt responded in a neat speech.
