Ancient Rites
 As Germans Wed

BERLIN, July 14: (CP)—By official order, those German weddings that aren't held in churches are more dignified than they used to be. But many summer weddings still seem odd affairs to those not versed in Nazi lore.

Ancient Teutonic ritual frequently is used—with many variations. A semi-religious sacrament was introduced not long ago by a Nazi sectarian movement. On a program in a Berlin meeting hall was an arrangement of Swastika flags and a version of the Bible which had been "cleansed of all Jewish taint."

The bridegroom was asked: "Art thou ready to take this woman as thy wife and live with her in marriage according to the German customs?" He smartly gave the Hitler salute and cried: "Jawohl, Heil Hitler." The bride answered in the same way to the question: "Art thou ready to stand at the side of this man in the hard struggle in behalf of the German Fatherland?" The couple was then enjoined "to have many children of whom the Fatherland may be proud."

The marriage of one Hitler youth to a Hitler girl was celebrated at Halle in the Early German History section of the local museum. Drums rolled and trumpets blared. Celebrant was the local Nazi commander who pronounced the couple man and wife, telling them that "life is not a vale of tears but a place to fight joyously." Instead of a wedding march, a choir sang a party hymn: "We March Towards the Sun!"

LAB WORK DISCUSSED

Dr. R. E. Coleman Is Interesting Speaker at Luncheon of Prince Rupert Gyro Club Yesterday

The work of the clinical laboratory and the clinical pathologist was the subject of an interesting talk yesterday at the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club by Dr. R. E. Coleman who is organizing such a pathological service for this city and district with headquarters at the Prince Rupert General Hospital. Anything that any one could do to support the laboratory here was a service in one's personal interest for there were few men or members of their families who would not some time or other have need of the service of the laboratory. Dr. Coleman declared. The operation of such laboratories was a costly business and it was impracticable to expect people to be able to pay fees which would be high enough to meet the costs. Therefore, the only way to have clinical laboratories, particularly in the smaller places, was under some sort of public health service plan.

The clinical laboratory was the focal point of the medical profession's curiosity, said Dr. Coleman. The clinical pathologist was a go-between between the practice of medicine and all the sciences. The key instruments of the laboratory were the microscope, balance and colorimeter which were used to extend the functions of the senses. Dr. Coleman briefly discussed the technical use of these instruments. Speaking along more general lines, Dr. Coleman asserted that it was not necessary to have typhoid fever or other infections. Once it was found where they existed, it was possible to control and eliminate them. This was another function of public health services.

The aim of every medical man, continued the speaker, was to get the best understanding of each individual case. In accomplishing this end, the normal doctor often made real sacrifices with hope of receiving due remuneration or credit.

Clinical laboratories were financed usually in a haphazard manner. Speaking generally, the public was lucky to get laboratory service at any price.

President D. G. Borland presided over the luncheon and expressed the appreciation of the Gyro Club to Dr. Coleman for his discourse.

SHOOTING DISCUSSED

Recent Tragedy, in Which Ex-Ser-vice Men Were Victims, Considered By Legion

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League was held last evening with President Jack Preece in the chair over a good attendance of members.

The applications of three new members were approved. They were William Gair, Menry Moles and George Thain. Letters from ex-service men who were patients in hospitals were received, thanking the branch for the provision of comforts.

The consideration of eighty-one resolutions for the forthcoming provincial convention to be held in Vancouver August 4-6 was referred to a resolutions committee. Two resolutions from the Stewart branch of the Canadian Legion were also considered. The official delegates from the branch will be President Jack Preece and J. S. Wilson, who is also Zone Representative. Fraternal delegates will be D. C. Schuber and G. J. Dawes who are in Vancouver.

The recent shooting tragedy in which two ex-service men were victims was under discussion. Thanks from the families for the help given by the Legion was expressed to the Branch. The whole affair is being very carefully watched by the branch and the executive has the support of the members in doing everything possible.

Dissatisfaction at the failure of some local contractors to employ ex-service men was expressed.

Full arrangements are under way for the entertainment of H.M.S. York. The visit of ships of the British navy is always a highlight among ex-service men and this will be no exception.
