Causes Of Explosion Wrecked German Liner Oakland Very Suspicious

OAKLAND, Nov. 4.—Circumstances of the explosion yesterday afternoon which wrecked the German combination freight and passenger liner Vancouver in the Oakland estuary look very suspicious. Although the cause has not yet been definitely established, the explosion appears to have been definitely established. The explosion appears to have been from without the ship. "It might have been caused by a bomb," declared the captain last night. Six separate investigations are now proceeding, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the United States shipping service, the Alameda police and the German consulate being among the bodies which are holding inquiries.

JAPAN TO CONTINUE INVASION

TOKYO, Nov. 4.—Japan today announced the possibility of its demanding the 1932 nine-power treaty respecting Chinese integrity and intention of intensifying its military raids in China. Foreign nations have been warned to remove their ships from points of danger and to give notice of where their vessels are. The Pearl River Canton is heavily mined. The invasion of China being continued on three fronts beyond Hankow, towards Fowling and along the Lunghai Railway and again reached the proportions. So far the offensive towards Sianfu has not yet resumed although it is expected to be resumed.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 4.—Altogether nineteen nations have agreed that international law in China must be respected. The United States Department of State has ignored for the time being the violation of the "open door" policy in China as implied in the Japanese announcement of intention to set up a new political and economic bloc consisting of Japan, Manchoukuo and
