Man in the Moon

The drama that is Europe beats any picture for play on the passing.

Alberta is setting a record for short sessions of the Legislature. That is one thing in favor of Alberta.

It might be a good thing if our own T. D. would cut short some of the speeches delivered in the Legislature of B. C. How would half an hour for each member do with a possible extra half hour for ministers?

"What a fine boy! Can he say anything yet?"

"Yes. We've taught him to say 'Hundred Feet from Heaven' as the title of her discourse. At the outset, she explained that, in view of the seriousness of world problems which were engaging the attention of people generally at this time, after you've washed your face and she had studiously designed her lecture along somewhat frivolous lines. Be that as it may, the discourse proved highly interesting and informative and, through the breezy and engaging manner of presentation, most entertaining.

The gathering taxed the capacity of the Boston banquet room. Members of the Women's Canadian Club were accompanied by their husbands and friends. Mrs. J. D. Fraser, president of the club, was in the chair. After giving her listeners a vivid description by word of mouth of the South American republic, Mrs. Macbeth presented a number of lantern slides illustrations, including scenes of Peru as well as Bolivia. Dr. Neal Carter assisted in connection with the projection of the pictures. At the conclusion of her lecture, a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Macbeth in motion of Mrs. Fred McLeod and Mrs. S. C. Thomson. Mrs. C. H. Wilson presided at the piano to accompany the singing of "O Canada" at the opening and "God Save the King" at the close.

The "Tibet of South America" owing to its high altitude, Bolivia was a land of gorgeous contrasts and extreme subtleties in its varying phases. Mrs. Macbeth declared upwards of eighty-percent of its population was native and lived ten thousand or more feet above sea level. Natives could move around with ease in these altitudes where the tourist had to gasp for breath. Within eight hours any variety of temperature could be encountered.

Mrs. Macbeth delved into the history of the republic of high tablelands. Written history went back only a few hundred years but there was much to be learned from legendary records in pottery and textile. There had been at least two periods of culture in four cras—pre-Inca, Inca, Spanish and modern. Here had been the heart of the great Inca nation, ancient probably as the Pyramids.

The speaker told of the founding of some of the cities and of the development of the great silver mines under the Spanish regime. The winning of independence from Spain and more recently the Gran Chaco war were referred to. It was interesting to observe how both Bolivia and Paraguay had believed they had won this war although the outcome could hardly be admitted as favoring Bolivia which had given up a large piece of territory to Paraguay in return for a navigable corridor by way of the Paraguay, Parana and La Plata to the Atlantic Ocean.

Mrs. Macbeth gave a graphic description of the rigors and experiences of the trip from Mollendo, the point of disembarkation on the Pacific Coast of Chile where one was roughly slung ashore in a suspended chair on to a high dock, up the railway with its tremendous gradient through the mighty Andes to Arequipa and on to the Atlantic Ocean.

MR. AND MRS. PERRY ARE THE NAMES

Mr. and Mrs. Perry out for a stroll while vacationing in sunny Bermuda. The Mr. Perry, of course, is England's former tennis great, still great (maybe better) only profiting from his ability to wield a racquet by playing as a pro. Mrs. Perry is the pretty Helen Vinson, that was, of the motion picture world.
