FASCISM IS DANGER

Speaker at Rotary Club Says Fanatic of Today Becomes Dictator of Tomorrow

The Canadian Legion has been built up until it has become the strongest of the veterans organizations in the country with a thousand branches. It is non-political but it has no use for the various 'isms' of which so much is heard. It stands for a sound Canadian citizenship. It has no use for Communism and is just as strongly opposed to Fascism.

The speaker drew attention to the fact that the fanatic of today became the dictator tomorrow. He told about the growing strength of Fascism in Quebec where the movement was ninety-nine per cent French Canadian and Catholic but in Ontario it was English-speaking and Protestant. It was clear then that it was not confined to any one religion. It made dislike of the Jews an excuse for existence but in Quebec it was evident that the young people were being taught that the rest of Canada was trying to put something over on Quebec.

Mr. Macnicol then asked what chance had Fascism to make headway in Canada. He claimed there were a number of chances. The movement was considered more respectable than Communism for the disoriented. Money for its campaigns could be more easily collected and it was particularly attractive to the unemployed white collar group which would never be tempted to fall for Communism.

An additional cause for political unrest in Canada was the belief that the political parties, irrespective of party stripe, had failed to solve Canada's problems, especially the unemployment problem. The younger people having failed to obtain what they considered were their rightful positions in industrial life viewed with impatience the efforts of the older men in power and were ready to lend a thoughtful ear to Fascist propaganda.

After giving a number of facts and figures in regard to pensions, the total cost of which to the Dominion was forty million dollars a year, the visitor mentioned that the National Employment Commission had recommended that the Dominion government take care of all unemployables. Until the government did this there would be a continual cause for discontent and friction.

Present as guests at the luncheon were J. S. Wilson, W. O. Fulton, R. Brassell, S. M. Andrews of Vancouver, D. G. Borland, J. Preece and J. Thompson of Vancouver.

Mrs. E. M. Keron, mother of R. J. Keron, sailed by the Cardena this morning for Vancouver after an extended visit here.
