CHAMBERLAIN'S MOVE

The move of Prime Minister Chamberlain in deciding to meet Chancellor Hitler face to face and discuss the international situation was, we believe, unprecedented and unexpected. It was rather a daring thing to do but is! right in line with modern ideas of diplomacy.

We seem to be finding out that Neville Chamberlain is really a big man. If he succeeds in preventing a world war the world will owe him a tremendous debt of gratitude. If he fails, he will feel that he will have done his best and the world will be sure that it was not for want of trying that the war was not prevented. It was a simple! thing but to most people something that had not been thought of.

It is clear that all the Fuehrer has to do is to raise a finger to stop the trouble in Czechoslovakia. It is an intolerable situation for a section of any country to be conniving with another country to bring about a change of flag. In any other countries the people of the Sudeten would be called traitors, but the present situation was forced on them by the treaty of Versailles and should be adjusted in a manner which would prevent similar erup-i tions in the near future.

Everyone hopes that Mr. Chamberlain will meet with success in his mission. He will have the blessing of the civilized world in his effort.

TOKIO'S STAND

The stand taken by Japan is certainly more bluff than anything else. That country has more than she can handle in China just now. The spokesman of the government worded the dare very carefully so that it might! mean anything or nothing. The object was to show the world that she was backing up her ally, Germany.

HAPPY AUSTRALIA

Australia was an object lesson to the rest of the Empire. Many of us wish that our own government at Ottawa had been in a position to do the same but they are under pledge to do nothing without calling Parliament into session. The moral force of being able to speak decisively and at once as Australia did yesterday is a great help in bringing about a settlement.
