STILL LOOK FOR FLIER

Possibility American Aviator Survived Crash on Flight To South America

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Jan. 31: (CP)—Although declared legally dead in a Detroit, Mich. court after being missing since he took off on an attempted flight to South America in 1927, Paul Redfern is still being sought in the hinterlands of Venezuela and British Guiana.

As an expedition led by T. J. Waldeck, big-game hunter and explorer from the United States pushed its way deep into the jungles in search for the American aviator, Reginald Lim, a young Chinese of Demarré, reported information he gathered while prospecting for gold in the interior.

Lim had been deep in the Mazaruni district, near the Venezuelan border, and heard that an airplane had fallen in that district. The information came from a tribe of white Indians whose teeth appeared to have been filed. He heard the report through a number of Brazilians with whom he was seeking gold on the Rio Negro.

He had joined the Brazilians between Venezuela and Brazil at the mouth of the Rio Negro and, after walking nine days from San Joaquim, they came to a camp occupied by the white Indians whose language he could not understand. The Brazilians interpreting for him reported the Indians had said an airplane fell in that area. No year was given for the accident.

They would have to walk for six days to reach the spot where the plane had fallen, Lim said he was told. He saw at the Indian camp pieces of canvas, piping and other materials which he thought might have belonged to a plane. He also observed one of the Indians wearing a raincoat, rare in those parts.

Latest Expedition
Waldeck is leading the latest expedition to journey into the British Guiana hinterlands in search for Redfern. His party was stranded on Devil's Island, on the Cuyani River, when their porters deserted them. A relief expedition was rushed to the four Americans carrying food and supplies.

Arthur J. Williams, American aviator, is another who has left parties into the jungle in search for the missing pilot.

Reports coming from the interior had the missing aviator living with various tribes of Indians in the Tumac Humac Mountains. He had been reported as having married a native and living with them as being hailed by a tribe as a "White God" and unable to leave and as having been crippled in his plane crash and unable to return to civilization.

Williams, on his return from his last expedition into the hinterlands in search for the missing American, declared he had photographs that led him to believe Redfern had crashed in that district.

"I am certain that Redfern, if he is still alive, is somewhere in that area," Williams declared. "I do not believe that anyone from outside has seen him. He cannot come out for the simple reason that he cannot move without food and the Indians cannot bring him out because they do not know anywhere else but the immediate vicinity of their villages."

"The Indians may be hostile, but I do not think they killed him. Indications are also that far from his plane being preserved as something to worship, it was broken up and parts are probably in the huts of medicine men," Williams declared.

Kitimaat Band Stages Concert

The new United Church mission boat Thomas Crosby paid its first visit to Kitimaat a few days ago and, for the benefit of Dr. G. E. Darby of Bella Bella, who was on board, the Kitimaat Concert Band gave a special concert which the doctor enjoyed very much. The band was under the baton of Thomas H. Nyce and the program included "My Regiment," "Queen City" and "Lights Out" marches, "Stradella" and "Light Cavalry" overtures; selections from "H.M.S. Pinafore" and "Over the Waves" waltz. During an interval there were vocal solos by six-year-old Charlie Shaw Jr. and by Stan Shaw. The former sang "Home on the Range" and the latter "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise."

WHIFFLETS From the Waterfront

Herring seeding continues in Prince Rupert Harbor with 600 catches being made. Indeed towards the end of the week more fish were being taken than could be handled in the Port Edward and Tucko Inlet reduction plants. The netboats suspended operations between Saturday and Sunday afternoons but were out again last evening. The W. No. 9, Capt. Martin Skoe, and Zenard, Capt. R. Gammon, are setting for the Tucko Inlet plant and the Port Edward. Capt. Norman Gunder son, newly arrived from Vancouver, the Western Monarch, Capt. Charles Clarke, and Balzac, Capt. John Orvik, for Port Edward.

Having been delayed by proceeding to the assistance of United States Navy fliers who lost their plane below Bella Bella yesterday morning after having been forced down Saturday afternoon in the course of a flight from Seattle to Prince Rupert, Union steamer Catala, Capt. James Pindley, did not arrive here until 3:15 this morning from the south and sailed a couple of hours later for Stewart Annex and other northern points whence she will return here tomorrow afternoon. Captain Pindley is back in command of the Catala after a vacation of several months.

Armour Salvage Co.'s power tug, Pachena, was on a trip to Porcher Island Saturday to bring in gravel for Mitchell & Currie for use in connection with the construction of gun shed being erected on the local waterfront for artillery of the 102nd Battery.

Don't Penalize Youth On Relief

Social Worker Thinks They Should Still Have Right to Marry

BOSTON, Jan. 31: (CP)—Grace Elliott, a New York psychologist, addressing special weekly forums arranged here at the Y. W. C. A. for brides, believed that those on relief should not be denied marriage.

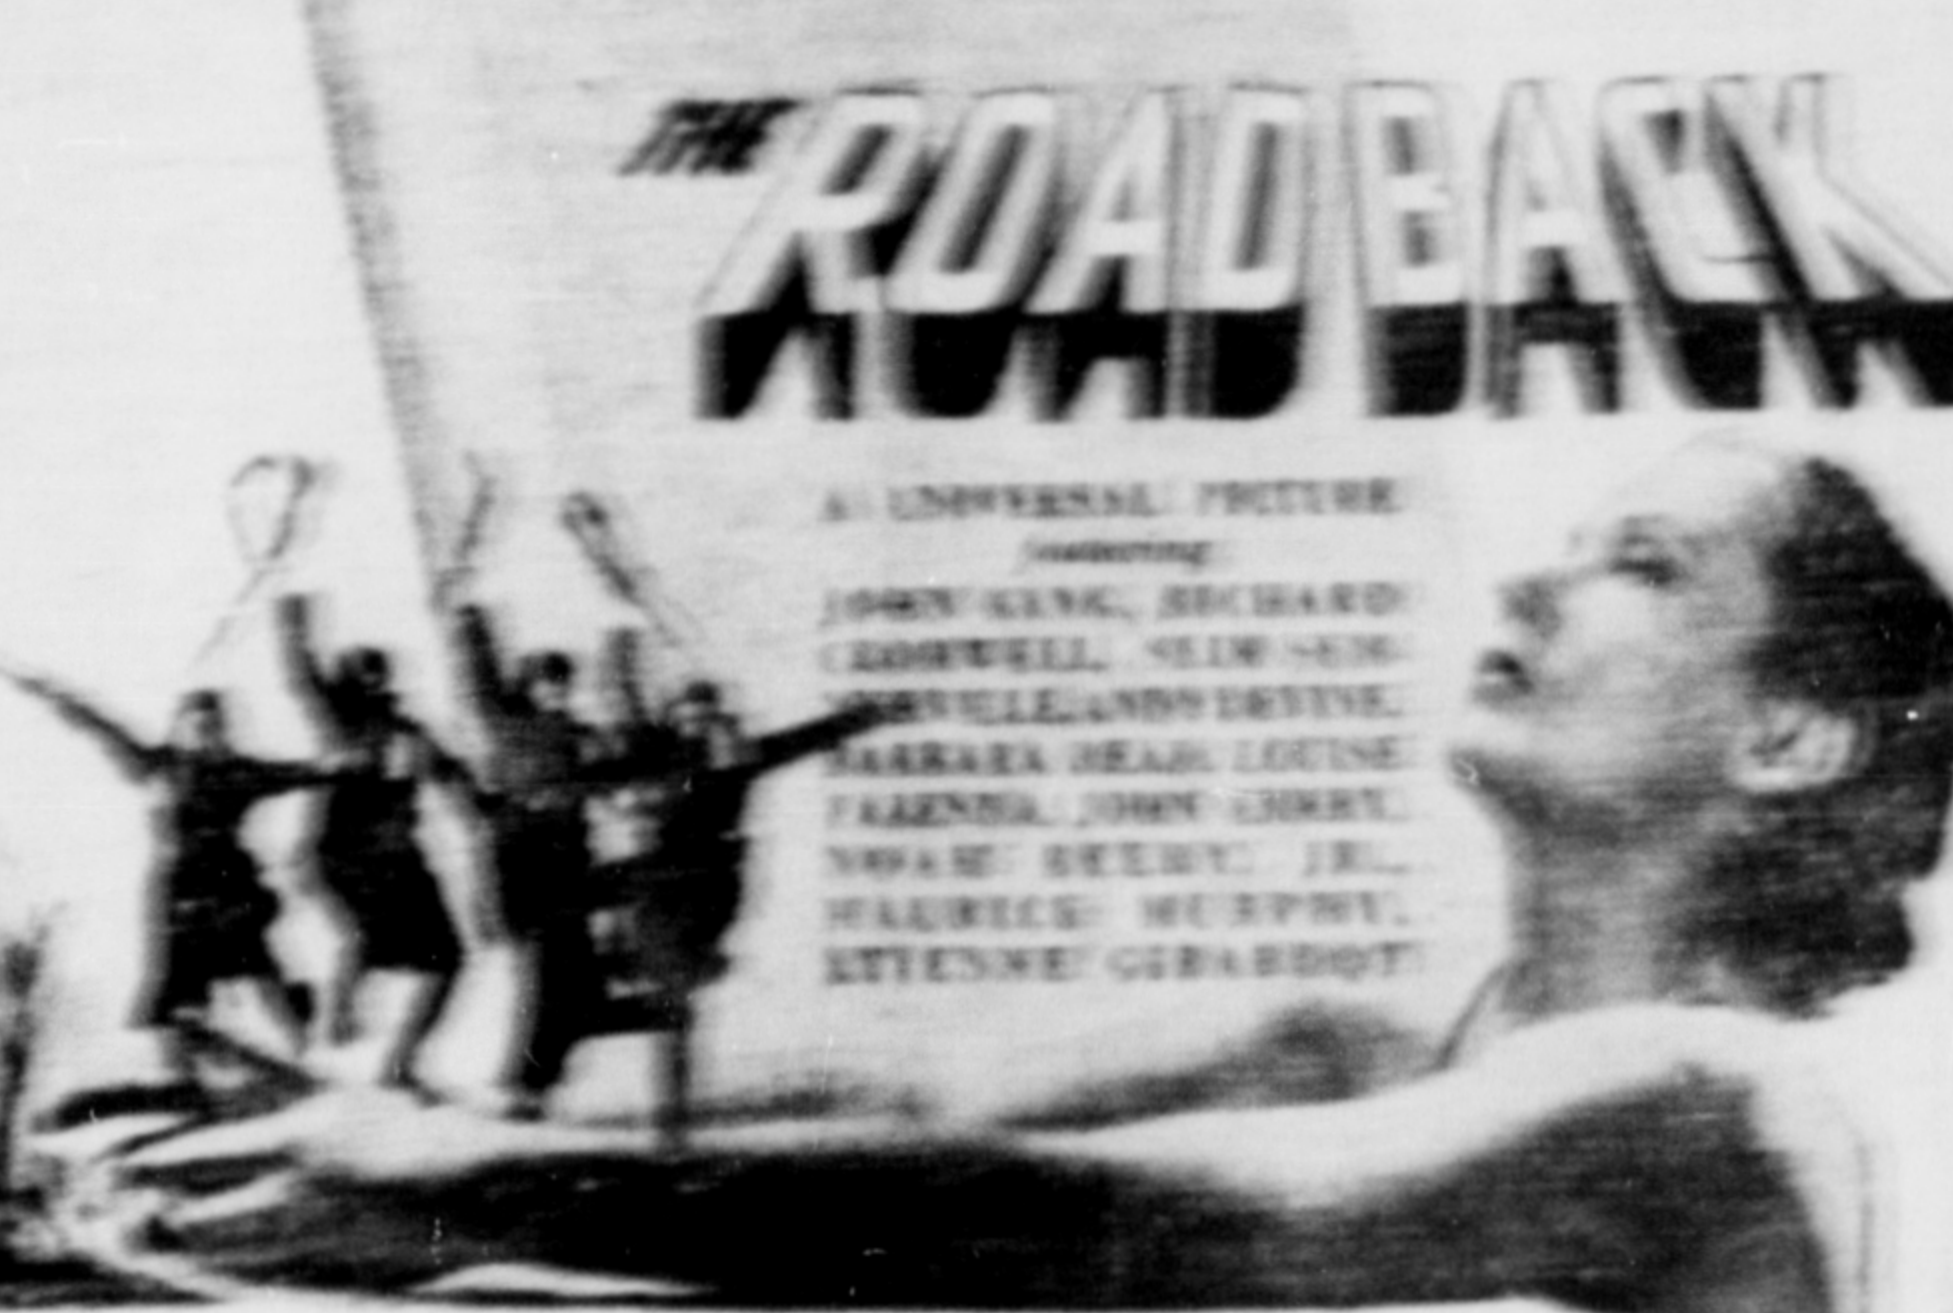

"Parents still persist in thinking that a boy is good for nothing because he considers marriage when he has neither a job nor accumulated capital," says Mrs. Elliott, "or that a girl should not take a job to supplement her husband's budget. Actually youth is willing to take greater responsibility than its elders ever did and has more initiative."

Mrs. Elliott refuses to believe that the American home is disintegrating and finds cause for optimism rather than pessimism in many post-depression factors.

Young married women who attend Mrs. Elliott's forum learn how to grapple with the economic circumstance that afflicts them, according to statistics, a two-room apartment and two-and-a-half children apiece.

"ROAD BACK" IS SHOWING

Post-War Conditions in Germany Revealed by Picture—"Panay" Scenes are Also Here

With "The Road Back" picture-tization of Erich Maria Remarque's novel about post-war conditions in Germany, as the feature presentation, the first of the week program at the Capitol Theatre also includes the showing of the pictures of the recent bombing of the United States gunboat Panay in the Yangtze River which, it is expected, will prove of outstanding interest.

The story of "The Road Back," the writing of which led to Remarque's exile from Germany, relates the adventures of love-lorn soldiers returning home after the war, the drama of the wives who waited and the sweathearts who stirred their boy friends to valiant violence. Food riots and the feverish unrest of an entire nation surging towards revolution are to be seen. Prominent in the cast are John King, Richard Cromwell, Slim Summerville, Andy Devine, Louise Fazenda, Noah Beery Jr., John Emery, Lionel Atwill, Spring Byington, Laura Hope Crews and others.

The Panay bombing pictures are the actual scenes of the attack upon the American gunboat which
