Bernice Palmer says . . .

For those of you who have children coming home to lunch here is something easy to prepare and good to eat. Slice one banana down the center for each child and fill with peanut butter. Put together like a sandwich, place on lettuce leaf and garnish with a splash of mayonnaise. It is simple and satisfying. Children like their food served nicely but, from experience, I have learned that they also like it served with a little restraint. I went to a great deal of trouble one day to fancy up some eggs. I whipped the whites and just poached them in milk. Then into the fluffy nests I dropped the soft poached yolks (the whole being served on toast) and added some parsley for the green. Then I brightly announced: "Now children, these are Irish eggs" My young son tasted his, looked at me pityingly, then said "Well mother, they taste just like hen's eggs to me."

MUSIC HIT AT CAPITOL

"You Can't Have Everything" is Week-End Feature at Capitol Theatre

A steady round of singing, dancing and comedy intersperses the light action of the musical show "You Can't Have Everything" which comes as the feature offering to the screen of the Capitol Theatre this week-end. Rhythm of the various popular types, snappy song hits, a cast of such personalities as Alice Faye, the Ritz Brothers and Don Ameche and mad comedy antics are included in the entertainment presented in this picture.

Alice Faye has the part of a hopeful young playwright penniless in New York while Don Ameche is the successful author of bright and fragile musical comedies. To further his romantic aims Ameche has Charles Winninger, his producer, buy Miss Faye's tragedy which the Ritz Brothers proceed to adapt into a rowdy farce.

Rubinoff and his violin are featured in the musical entertainment of "You Can't Have Everything." Music and lyrics by Mack Gordon and Harry Revel are featured and add zest to the picture.

M. P. McCaffery sailed last night on the Prince George for a holiday trip in the course of which he plans to travel as far south as California. Miss Mary McCaffery R.N., his daughter, also sailed by the Prince George on her return to her nursing duties in Victoria after spending the Christmas and New Year holiday season at her home here.
