

JAMAICA RIOTS SCENE OF BITTER FIGHTING

A general strike which tied up the city of Kingston, Jamaica, reached a climax when hoodlums took advantage of the tense situation and attempted to take control of the business section. Police and military authorities restored order only after much bitter fighting. A dock laborer, suspected of strike-breaking, is shown here as a group of strikers assaulted him. He was badly beaten before police were able to rescue him.

SMITHERS

The many friends of Inspector T. W. S. Parsons will be pleased to hear that he has been selected to act as Commissioner of Provincial Police at Victoria temporarily and trust that he will receive the permanent appointment to that position in succession to Commissioner J. H. McMullin who is retiring. Mr. Parsons has many friends along the Skeena River and through the Bulkley Valley from the days when he was a constable starting out on his police work in the provincial force. In 1914 Mr. Parsons was stationed at Terrace and left there to go to Fort St. John to which point he had been transferred. Before leaving Terrace he was presented with a gold watch which had been suitably inscribed, testifying to his efficiency and popularity as a police officer at that place. He was doing effective work in those early days and gave promise at that time of getting to the top of the ladder in his chosen work.

Some local hunters who had been enjoying very fair luck as far as hunting was concerned had their luck change before reaching their homes in Smithers when they had the misfortune to have their car hit a horse owned by James Donaldson near Telkwa, breaking the horse's leg and the animal had to be destroyed. The horse happened to be on the highway near the Donaldson home at the time. Some agitation was started here a short time ago to have the roaming cattle nuisance abated along the main highways but nothing has been done about it. Aside from the dangerous aspect of the situation, it costs the Public Works Department many thousands of dollars annually to repair ditches and the sides of the roads where cattle have destroyed previous work.

The finest fall weather in the history of the Bulkley Valley is still staying on with several months of perfect weather already behind it. There are fine bright sunny days with very little frost at night and no snow yet in sight except upon the mountain tops. The roads are all in the best condition that they ever have been in this district and hunters are spreading far and wide through the woods and along the hillsides with perfect hunting weather expecting that there is no snow to add them in the tracking of deer and moose. Most of the hunters have had very good luck and have brought into town a number of moose caribou and deer. Grouse have been very plentiful this fall and many good bags have been reported.

Bird Hunting Season Opens—Reduction Plant Reopening—Week-end Shipping Activity.

The season for the hunting of geese and ducks in this district opened at the week-end and a party consisting of Capt. Paul Armour, in spite of infirmities, Jack Lindsay, Roy Nichols, Jim Bacon, Bill Fulton, Frank MacCallum and George Bryant lost no time in getting out. Aboard the Pachena, they left Friday night and visited Big Bay, Kwinmass and Khutzmateen, returning at 1 o'clock this morning. Hunting was very poor, the party reports, the bag consisting of two geese and about sixty mixed ducks.

Thomas Anderson, manager of the Tucks Inlet reduction plant, returned to the city on the Catala last night from Vancouver to reopen the plant which has been closed for some time.

Frank Waterhouse freighter Chilkoot now in command of Capt. E. B. Allan following appointment of Capt. A. W. Ogden to the pilotage, arrived in port at 12:20 midnight Saturday from Vancouver and, after discharging local cargo, sailed at 2:30 p.m. for Wales Island to load canned salmon.

Union steamer Catala, Capt. James Findlay, arrived in port at 9:15 last night from the south, sailing a couple of hours later for Stewart, Anyox and other northern points whence she will return here tomorrow southbound. The Catala had been delayed somewhat in coming north by loading 18,000 feet of heavy timber at Telegraph Cove for Anyox.

The Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co.'s fish buying scow which has been located at Skidegate Bar during the trolling season was returned to port the latter part of last week by the Armour Salvage Co.'s power tug Daly, Capt. Reg Green.

The utility boat Chuqualla, which was wrecked a week ago yesterday on Wales Island, four men aboard her being marooned for four days without food or shelter before being rescued, was a vessel of thirty-nine feet five inches in length with beam of nine feet and depth of three feet eight inches. She was built in Vancouver in 1913 and was formerly owned by Ernest A. Lewis and Charles Duke of Stewart before being acquired by J. E. Dyer of Prince Rupert. It was necessary for the four men to receive hospital treatment in Port Simpson for effects of exposure.

LLOYD FILM AT CAPITOL

Famous Comedian Returns to Screen After Absence of Year and a Half—Exciting Western with William Boyd

"Professor Beware," marking the return of Harold Lloyd to the screen after an absence of a year and a half, and "Pride of the West," an outdoor action film starring William Boyd as "Hop-a-Long" Cassidy, comprise a first of the week double bill program at the Capitol Theatre.

In "Professor Beware" Lloyd plays the part of a down and out Egyptologist whose desire to help anyone in distress sends him in a crazy dash across the continent to New York enroute to Egypt. He has uproariously funny experiences in his penniless jaunt across the country with a pretty girl at his heels in the person of Phyllis Welch, Lionel Stander and Raymond Walburn, as a pair of tramps, contribute to the fun which culminates in Lloyd marrying an heiress.

The unwritten law of the frontier west that a man must fight to the death for the honor of his friends when suspicion falls upon them brings "Hop-a-Long" Cassidy face to face with many exciting and dangerous experiences in "Pride of the West." The climax of the picture is a battle between highwaymen and ranchers after William Boyd has succeeded in trapping bandits who have robbed a stage coach and tried to frame his two pals.

SAUCES

It is often said that the sauce makes the dish. This may seem an exaggerated statement but it is true that a good sauce adds flavor and appeal to the food with which it is served and that a well-seasoned sauce seems a necessary complement to many foods. Cream sauce, with its innumerable variations, is undoubtedly the most generally used of all the sauces. A few practical, easily prepared variations of the sauce with their uses are suggested for the homemaker who is looking for new ways of serving simple dishes.

Medium Cream Sauce (Basic Recipe)

Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, salt and pepper.

Melt butter. Blend in flour. Add milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Season with salt and pepper. A little paprika added to the sauce gives it a richer color.

Variations of Cream Sauce

Cheese Sauce—Add ½ cup grated cheese to cream sauce. Beat well

Serve with vegetables such as cauliflower and asparagus.

Egg Sauce—Add 1 hard-cooked egg, chopped, to 1 cup cream sauce. Serve with fish.

Parsley Sauce—Add 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley to 1 cup cream sauce. Serve with fish.

Celery Sauce—Add ½ cup chopped cooked celery to 1 cup cream sauce. Serve with oysters or fowl.

Curry Sauce—Add ½ teaspoon curry powder to 1 cup cream sauce. Serve with eggs, lamb, rice, chip-ped beef, chicken.

Caper Sauce—Add ¼ cup capers to 1 cup cream sauce. Serve with fish.

Onion Sauce—Cook 1 cup sliced onion for 5 minutes. Drain and rub through a sieve. Add 1 cup cream sauce. Serve with pork chops, mutton or hard-cooked eggs.

Vegetable Sauce—Use ½ cup vegetable stock and ½ cup milk as liquid in making cream sauce. Add ¼ cup cubed vegetables. Serve with cooked vegetables.

Mock Hollandaise Sauce—Make 1 cup cream sauce. Pour some hot mixture over beaten egg yolk. Add to sauce. Cook 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon butter. Serve with vegetables or fish.
