Aklavik Bride Finds Thrills In Northland

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9: (CP)-Pioneering women of other days may have found life in the northland dull and dreary, but the bride of today living in the north finds airplanes and radio bring civilization to her doorstep. Mrs. Frank Riddell, who was Miss Norah Prince of Winnipeg has written to Winnipeg friends telling how a pioneer bride finds the north country at Aklavik, near the mouth of the Mackenzie River, in Canada's sub-Arctic. She can tell, via the radio, when, there is fog in London or when a French government falls. Her house is cozy, warm and threeroomed. She even has an electric washer.

Principal drawback, she writes, is the difficulty in getting household help. The natives are almost, 187 209 175 useless and very expensive.
