PRINCE RUPERT NOT AFFECTED

Prince Rupert evidently is not affected by the recent; July 15 Rink No. 6 vs. Rink No. ruling that the bond conversion scheme here was carried 9; Rink No. 2 vs. Rink No. 8. out under a special act of the Legislature which might prove to be ultra vires of the province. Victoria seems 10; Rink No. 1 vs. Rink No. 7. to be in a bad financial mess as a result of the court de-

Prince Rupert has issued new bonds for $1,735,000 at 10. four per cent, all of which have been given out in place of old bonds which were surrendered to the city with the exception of one small lot of $2,600. The owner of these has roll, R. E. Benson (Skin). E. O. not yet been found. The new bonds are in the Bank of Montreal awaiting application from the owner and drawing interest at the four per cent rate, the old bonds having (skip). D. Crerar, P. Lakie, J. S. been cancelled.

In Prince Rupert's case nobody was forced by the courts to surrender his bonds. All did so voluntarily and the power of the city to make the change was never chal- (Skip). J. M. Campbell, R. E. James, lenged. Something like seventy-three per cent of the F. Dibb, D. A. MacPhee (Skip). J. bondholders had agreed to make the change before the Bulger, W. Miller, W. H. Tobey, G. Legislature took action. This was the result of a year's P. Tinker (Skip). H. T. Cross, J. work on the part of the city authorities.

As a result of the successful conversion and the sta- w. H. Wilson-Murray, D. G. Borbility of the management of the city, the Prince Rupert land (Skip). bonds are now selling at a better price, considering the rate of interest, than Vancouver and a number of other cities. Prices have been ranging from $73 to 78. At one time prior to conversion they were selling as low as $35.

THE BRITISH AIR CRISIS

Among the means taken to bring the British air crisis A delegation of about 20 inmates to a point where the people of that country might realize called at the governor's office the real position and take action to set it right, in April where an address was read. Co. R. W. R. Chown, a British industrialist, issued a little publi- Burritt succeeded him. cation which he called "The Crisis," in which he showed how ridiculously inadequate was the British air fleet and how lax was the air department of the British government. This little four-page paper was distributed broadcast. It drew attention to the fact the German government knew all about Britain's weakness whereas the British people were hopelessly ignorant of it. It went into detail, showing that the British had very few effective. fighting planes while Germany was turning them out at a tremendous rate. He makes a number of charges of inefficiency such as the delivery of 67 Whitley Bombers by a well known British firm without bomb sights, bomb racks or gun mountings. These were put into store instead of being sent to airdromes. He also calls attention to the inadequate supply of gasoline.

As a result of this and other protests, the Chamberlain government has taken belated action in removing the head of the department which is put in charge of what is supposed to be a more businesslike head who will insist on results. Probably there will be a clean-up in the department following the appointment of Sir Kingsley Wood who was named to the position of air minister yesterday.

Judging from the allegations made in Britain, Sir Kingsley will have to do some fast work if he is to place the defences of London on anything like an adequate basis.
