ARE THEY DIVIDED?

Information has been received in Madrid that the insurgent forces are rather badly divided and that this difference among the main factions is a weakness in the Franco camp. According to the stories that come through there are two main groups among the Franco forces. On one side the Traditionalists are the ultra conservatives who seem to be the main strength of the movement. They support the aristocracy and the church and will undoubtedly be the chief power if Franco wins. The other chief group is the Falangists. These support the church but not the landlords and are opposed to foreign interference with the affairs of Spain. While the Traditionalists would like a dictatorship of those who believe they have a traditional right to dictate, the Falangists would like a dictatorship representing the masses such as took place in Italy. The north of Spain is generally speaking very Traditionalist while the south is Falangist.

It is said that negotiations are going on between the Falangists and the Republicans or loyalists with a view to possibly ending the struggle but whether this movement is strong enough to affect the outcome seems rather doubtful. If the Falangists go over to the government it will undoubtedly weaken Franco.

The information that comes through the lines is very meagre and Franco keeps such an iron grip on his following that it seems doubtful if it means as much as it might appear.

DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE IN RUSSIA

The story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, which many people considered to be an impossible one, is being re-enacted in Russia today. Maxim Litvinoff, commissar of foreign affairs, assures the British Foreign Secretary that Russia will co-operate in a movement to bring about a general settlement of European differences. Almost at the same time G. Dimitroff, secretary general of the Communist Internationale, with the full consent and approval of the Russian Government, issued instructions to communists in all countries urging that they bring pressure on their governments to prevent any compromise with fascists anywhere and promising full support of the Soviet government in its efforts. He would "break the back of Fascism once and for all."

The difficulty with these new forms of government is that they are not content to let other nations alone. They must interfere. There is little to choose in this respect between fascism and communism. Each seems to think it has a call to rule the world and each will probably be disappointed.

Gyro Softball League Finishes Season With Acropolis Winning All Games

The final game in the senior boys' division of the Gyro Softball League was played last night at the Gyro Ball Park with Acropolis Hill beating McClymont Park by a score of 6 to 4. The game was short, lasting only seven innings, but there was enough excitement packed into the last half of the last inning to last for a long time.

The game started quite slowly with things looking black for McClymont when Acropolis scored four runs in the first half of the first inning. Weak fielding was responsible for practically all of these runs and, had not Parlett, McClymont's pitcher, struck out seven men in the first three innings, the score would have been much higher.

The first four men to bat for Acropolis scored, all on errors. Then the next two men struck out. A safe hit by H. Schaeffer went for nought when Parlett struck out Laporte to retire the side. In the second inning Acropolis scored one more on a hit by Mentenko, O'Neill's sacrifice and a hit by Magnet.

Acropolis scored once more in the four when O'Neill hit safely, was sacrificed to third by Magnet and Smith and then came home on Brass' single.

McClymont took a long time to get started and it was not until the fifth inning that they managed to score. At this point Parlett took matters into his own hands and made a gallant attempt to win his own ball game. Parlett batted first in this inning and singled sharply. He was followed by Keays who advanced him to second by hitting safely to let field. Parlett stole third and came home on Santerbane's sacrifice. Keay's followed him across the plate when he scored from second on Scherk's double. Simundson and Barker struck out to finish off what looked like a promising rally.

Again in the seventh inning McClymont seriously threatened the ultimate winners when they scored two more runs on three consecutive hits by Bussy, Santerbane and Keays. Scherk was an infield out. Simundson flied out to right field and Barker struck out to end the game with Acropolis still leading.

The Acropolis team has now indisputably won the League. It has completed all the scheduled games and has not been beaten. Over confidence and too much Parlett almost defeated them in last night's game but the team showed why they have yet to be beaten in league play when they tightened up sufficiently in the dying moments of the game to pull it out of the fire. Neil Ross was umpire.
