FINDING EMPLOYMENT

Editor, Daily News:

In Friday's issue of your esteemed paper your editorial reads in part: "We strongly support the Mackenzie King administration in its plans to pass a law establishing unemployment insurance. However this required a change to be made in the Canadian constitution which was blocked by Premier Duplessis of Quebec." It is a serious problem when a condition exists whereby the reactionary government of a single province can block the program of a nation. Chances are however, that, if legislation had been passed and referred to the Privy Council, the change would have been allowed but this was never attempted. Quebec has a large working population that certainly knows that this measure would have been of benefit to them. The whole trouble, evidently, hinges on the fact that there is bad blood between the two governments which won't lead to unity and progress.

Again I quote from your editorial: "Mackenzie King refuses to take a chance and yet his policy may be the wiser one. Canada is in a sounder position than is the United States where the President put into effect so - called progressive policies." Meaning that, if our government should create work by developing natural resources, the economic system of Canada would be adversely affected. Apparently, then, our natural resources cannot be profitably developed. This again leads to the conclusion that the limit of Canada's program along those lines has been reached. For it is logical to suppose that no private capital will be invested if such investment will not yield a profit. However experts have estimated that Canada can support 40 to 50 million people. From this can be surmised the country really has an enormous natural store of potential wealth. Hence why shouldn't the government take an inventory to ascertain what can be accomplished in the way of profitable development?

It's a discredit to a country as large as Canada with only eleven million inhabitants to have an acute unemployment problem.

And referring to the United States, if that country is in an unstable position it was caused by events happening prior to depression and not by the President's recovery program. America emerged from the war with a 33 billion dollar war debt, which was augmented by the soldier bonus bill and today her debt stands at 37 billion an indebtedness on a par with that of Great Britain.

Although the United States, where a major part of natural resources were being developed long before depression, is not in such a favorable position as Canada in regard to creating profitable employment, the Republic has, nevertheless, expended money on other than dead assets. Large sums are being invested in irrigation and power projects which in the future will yield continual revenue.

Errol Flynn and Oliva de Havil'and in "Four's a Crowd" at Capitol Theatre

With a cast topped by Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Rosalind Russell and Patric Knowles, "Four's a Crowd," a swiftly-paced comedy romance, is the first of the week feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre here. Walter Connolly, Hugh Herbert, Herman Bing, Melville Cooper and Franklin Pangborn are also important members of the cast.

The quartette to whom the title refers is made up of Errol Flynn, former newspaper editor, who has become a high-powered public relations counsellor; Olivia de Havilland, the spoiled heiress to many millions; Rosalind Russell, clever, witty and good-looking dewspaper reporter, and Patric Knowles, rich playboy engaged to wed Olivia who inherits the paper on which Rosalind works. How the interests of these cross in connection with an effort to put a languishing big city newspaper back on its feet makes an exciting story with an interesting climax.

In the course of the picture there are scores of novel and hilarious incidents.

The Daily News is an A. B. C paper.

Greenville Woman Dies

Mrs. William Leeson, Member Of One of Village's Leading Families, Passes Away

The Naas River vilage of Greenville mourns the recent passing of Mrs. William Leeson, the former Miss Alice Violet Russ, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Russ, prominent residents of Greenville. Death occurred after a long illness which developed early in the summer at Sunnyside Cannery. Later she was taken to Port Simpson Hospital and in the fall had been removed to Greenville.

Mrs. Leeson was born in Greenville December 12, 1913. She was educated at Crosby Girls' Home at Port Simpson and on October 11 1933, was married to David William Leeson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leeson.

Deceased was an active worker in the church and in community life, having been president this year of St. Andrew's Guild.

The funeral took place on deceased's twenty-fourth birthday from St. Andrew's Anglican Church at Greenville with Rev. W. S. Cooper officiating. The whole village was in attendance. Burial was made in Greenville cemetery, members of the village council and St. Andrew's Guild acting as pallbearers. Funeral marches were played by the Greenville Concert Band under the conductorship of Fred McKay.

Prior to the funeral, the body lay in state and the members of St. Andrew's Guild paid a final visit, each bringing individual flowers. Songs and prayers were led by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McKay. Members of the Woman's Auxiliary and Athletic Guild also paid similar visits. The Greenville Concert Band played funeral hymns and the elders of the village delivered speeches.

On the Sunday evening preceding the funeral the Greenville Choir and Church Army Sisters sang sacred hymns as the remains were placed in the casket with Mr. Cooper officiating.

PRINCE GEORGE

There was no active election voting here last week, all offices being filled by acclamation—A. M. Patterson, mayor; W. H. Crocker, J. N. Kellor and C. C. Reid, aldermen, and Frank Clark, W. L. Armstrong and A. M. Patterson, school trustees.

E. V. Chambers of Penny was fined $250, with option of two months' imprisonment, by Stipendiary Magistrate George Milburn last week on a charge of shooting a cow moose out of season and without a gun licence. He is serving the time.

United Air Transport is placing a new eleven place plane with cruising speed of 140 miles per hour on the run between Vancouver and Whitehorse via Prince George.

The local Elks' Lodge is meeting with a good response to its Christmas hamper fund with $163.95 raised up to the end of the week.

A search is being conducted for Woo Hing, 55-year old Oriental, who has been missing for a week. He is believed to be mentally deranged. A reward of $150 has been put up for his recovery, dead or alive.

Flying a new 13-passenger Bellanca plane, Pilot Everett Wasson, pioneer Yukon flier, was here at the first of last week on his way to Whitehorse. He had taken delivery of the ship at Seattle for White Pass and Yukon Route. It is one of the largest ships being operated in Northern Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Trotter are leaving for Vancouver where they will spend the Christmas and New Year holiday season.

Ald. W. L. Armstrong left on Saturday for Armstrong where he will pay a brief visit with his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams arrived last week from Germanson Creek and, after a brief visit here, left for California where they will spend the winter.

TERRACE

A. Cook and A. E. White of the local teaching staff left on Thursday's train for Vancouver to spend the Christmas holiday.

Fred Nash returned on Monday from Ecstall River where he has been engaged for some time in survey work.

Weather continues exceptionally mild. There is no snow below 2000 feet.

The Ski Club held its annual dance Thursday night.
