TIME TO CLEAN HOUSE

The Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, a Conservative newspaper printed in English and circulating chiefly among English-speaking Canadians in the province of Quebec, recently published an editorial article attacking Hon. Maurice Dupre and his paper Le Journal and also Georges Heon, M.P. The two men are Conservative leaders and it is charged that they have been trying to stir up public opinion against the participation of Canada in British wars. Le Journal publishes the speeches with approval.

The Chronicle-Telegraph declares that this policy is not the policy of the Conservative party in Canada nor is it a policy that any Conservative leader outside of Quebec could advocate with approval. The newspaper does not object to any person advocating any policy it may wish but does object to their doing so and, at the same time, calling themselves Conservatives. It says that Conservatives should be bound by Conservative policies or should cease from masquerading in false colors.

The Quebec paper says that Dr. Manion received the support of the Chronicle prior to the convention at which he was chosen and it sees the undoing of the Conservative party if the present policy is adhered to. The concluding paragraph of the editorial follows:

"Let the Conservative-Nationalists realize that they can accomplish nothing by professing allegiance to Conservatism, as long as the Conservative party remains in opposition. And it is in opposition that the Conservative party will still remain as long as they flaunt their nationalistic views in the faces of their fellow Canadians. They will do better for themselves, then, by joining forces with those who hold similar views and the Conservative party will be infinitely better off without them. If they cannot either learn moderation or else abandon a membership for which they are not qualified in fact, the Conservative party will be faced with the unpleasant but salutary task of cleaning house. And if it has to be done, it cannot be done too quickly!"

ENROLLING

Interest Being Displayed in Physical Education and Recreational Activities

Seventy-two men and eighty-five women have so far been enrolled at the provincial physical education and recreational centre which opened for the season this week with Garry McGarrigle as instructor in charge. Twenty men and fifteen women are now in regular attendance and a substantial increase in this number is anticipated immediately.

Five classes a week are being held, two for men, two for women and one special class in boxing and weight lifting.

A number of boxing tournaments are planned as season's features. There will be intensive training for these as Instructor McGarrigle does not intend to put on boxing shows at all unless they are real lively
